

SUPT. NOT ELECTED

County Commissioners Transacted Routine Business Only

County Commissioner Levi S. Gould, in the recent state election carried the great county of Middlesex by 10,718 votes, while Lieut. Gov. Frothingham carried it by only 1890.

Of the 40 or more towns in the county, not including the 11 cities, only two, Natick and Hopkinton, gave a majority to the democratic candidate.

The county commissioners met at the court house in regular session this morning. Commissioners Gould and Richardson being in attendance, Commissioner Williams absent.

The Training School

The commissioners took no action on the election of a superintendent of training school and expressed surprise at reading in the Lowell papers that the election was to take place today. In reference to the rumor that in the event of his defeat for commissioner he would have been elected to the Training school position, Mr. Gould said: "I can't understand how such a story started. I wouldn't accept the position for all the money in Kingdom Come. I wouldn't be able to fill the position, in the first place. Somebody must have been trying to spring a joke."

"I wouldn't have voted for you, anyway," said Commissioner Richardson, smilingly.

The Ferrin Land

Mrs. Henry Ferrin of Cheshamford appeared before the commissioners in relation to a parcel of land owned by her in Princeton street opposite the Training school lot through which a 10 inch pipe drain runs from the school property.

Mrs. Ferrin complains that the existence of this drain on her land, which is assessed for $2000, makes it unsalable and she wants the county either to acquire it or grant her land damages. Commissioner Gould told her that under the law the county could not acquire it. The drain was laid in 1891, after due legal process, which is properly recorded. At the time of the laying of the drain there was no claim for land damages and that claim now is outlived. Furthermore the county having laid the drain by legal permission is under no obligation to pay the owner of the land anything at this time. In regard to the county taking the land, its location on the opposite side of Princeton street makes it undesirable for the purposes of the Training school and even if the county should take it the assessed value could not be realized. It was suggested that Mrs. Ferrin petition the Cheshamford assessors for relief and she was advised to consult counsel in the matter. There was no other business.

$50,000 CASE SETTLED

After Jury Had Been Empanelled For Trial

With three sessions of the superior court in progress at the same time there was business galore at the court house this morning.

The three sessions were: Without Juries, Justice Morton. Without Juries, Justice Fessenden. Divorce court (uncontested), Justice Irwin; his first appearance in Lowell.

The first session has been in progress for several weeks and was about to enter upon the hearing of the biggest case of the session from the standpoint of the ad damnum but it was settled without trial after a consultation of counsel.

The divorce court started without delay and ground out a number of uncontested cases while the session presided over by Judge Fessenden was much slower in getting down to business by reason of many motions that required the court's attention during the morning session.

Tomorrow these three sessions and two sessions of the probate court will be held.

Big Case Settled

After a consultation behind closed doors for nearly three hours at the court house, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, dean of the Massachusetts bar, associated with John P. Kennedy for the plaintiff and Messrs. Trull & Wier for the defendant. In the action of contract of Harriet Kammerling vs. Moulton administrator of the estate of Alice K. Hopkins, deceased, in the sum of $50,000.

The case was to have been tried today and no other cases were made ready. At the opening of court it was called by Judge Morton and a jury empanelled.

Before proceeding further, however, Messrs. Trull & Wier for the defense asked the court's permission for a consultation of counsel relative to a settlement.

The four counsel then retired, Judge

Mrs. Dickerman had talked frequently of suicide during the past fortnight and had been carefully watched by the other members of her family. This morning while in her bedroom she drank the poison and then staggered into an adjoining room, where she said to her mother: "I have taken poison." Sister St. David Probably Internally Injured

Sister St. David of the Gray Nuns of the Cross of St. Joseph's convent, who teaches in the parochial school of Notre Dame de Lourdes parish, suffered a painful accident this morning, when she was struck and thrown down by an automobile in Middlesex street.

At about 7:30 o'clock, the sister was walking from an electric car in Middlesex street opposite the school, when an approaching touring car struck her and threw her on the hard pavement. By chance the machine was going at a very slow speed and was stopped before any serious injury was done to the nun. The chauffeur whose name could not be learned, removed the injured nun to the convent in Moody street, where a physician was called. The sister is suffering from a few bruises and probably internal injuries.

GRANDDAUGHTER OF DANIEL WEBSTER IS DEAD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Mme. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte, widow of the grandson of Jerome Bonaparte, brother of the first Napoleon, and granddaughter of Daniel Webster, died at her home here yesterday after a long illness. Mme. Bonaparte was first stricken at her summer home in Bar Harbor, Me., and was brought to this city in September since which time she had gradually failed.

She was 72 years old and was born in Boston, her maiden name being Caroline Leroy Appleton. Mme. Bonaparte's mother was a daughter of Daniel Webster. She was married first to Newbold Edgar of New York, and after his death to Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte of Baltimore. She is survived by five children, Newbold Leroy Edgar of New York, Commander Webster A. Edgar of the United States Navy, Sister Mary de Sales Edgar of the convent of the Visitation, Baltimore; Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and the Countess Von Moitte-Gallfeldt of Denmark. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and Newbold Leroy Edgar were at their mother's bedside when she died.

Judge Fessenden's Court
Judge Fessenden and Clerk Putnam opened court for motions and contested divorce cases in the old superior court room. So large is the regular divorce list that it was decided to hear contested divorce cases in Judge Fessenden's court until Judge Irwin finishes the uncontested cases.

Many motions were heard during the morning while cases were assigned on the divorce list.

The equity list will be taken up in its entirety on Wednesday morning. The case of Jean vs. Cawley, relative to the conveyance of property in Church street which was second on the court list was non-suited at request of plaintiff. Messrs. Qua appeared for the plaintiff and John J. Devine for the defendant.

During the reading of the list in this court a case was called that had been taken hold for a long time but which in some unaccountable manner had gotten upon the list again. When the name of the counsel for the defendant was called the lawyer who happened to be present arose and said: "Your Honor, I think that case will be necessary. I am not sure but I think my client in that case is dead."

"Yes he's dead," remarked another lawyer. "I had a suit against him." It was announced that the contempt proceedings in the contested divorce case of Rundstrom vs. Rundstrom would be called tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Cases Defaulted

After the hearing of motions the case of David Ziskind vs. Frank Rosie and A. Gross was called, the defendants defaulted.

In the case of the Lowell Trust Co. vs. Smith, counsel for the defense filed a suggestion of bankruptcy and the case was put over until this afternoon.

The cases of Catherine and Thomas McCourt vs. Boston Elevated Co. were called, and the defendants defaulted, and the counsel was heard on the assessment of damages.

The defendant was defaulted in the case of John W. Duff vs. C. Louise Shaw.

Suit on Forged Check

Judge Fessenden heard Lawyers Thomas J. Robbins and John J. Hogan on the former's demurrer in the case of Lowell Trust company vs. Horne Coal company. In this case the defendant accepted a check for $50 from one Greene and endorsing it presented it for collection at the Lowell Trust company which the check was drawn. The bank honored the check but later learned that the signature of the drawer had been forged. The bank then sued the Horne company to recover the amount of the check. In the demurrer the defense claims that the plaintiff must show that the defendant was a party to the fraud or was negligent.

HEAVY REGISTRATION

Names of 2712 Women Were Added to the Lists Last Week

THERE ARE FOUR CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR, 91 FOR ALDERMEN, AND 35 FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD, WHOSE NAMES WILL APPEAR ON THE OFFICIAL BALLOT.

The total registration for last week was 2358, 2712 women and 246 men. Five times as many women registered last week as were on the check list previous to that time and the registrars expect that the women will keep them busy today, tomorrow and Wednesday from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. These are extra sessions agreed upon by the registrars in order to satisfy the demand for opportunity to register. The number of women to register last week was far in excess of any guess made by the registrars or others especially interested. Registration for the week, by wards, was as follows:

Wds.	Nov. 13	Nov. 14	Nov. 15	Nov. 16	Nov. 17	Nov. 18
1	12	35	86	165	37	226
2	3	9	22	74	73	237
3	7	9	27	75	72	276
4	0	1	39	59	140	339
5	5	1	19	66	125	296
6	2	6	23	78	76	233
7	8	8	17	95	134	338
8	7	14	26	13	159	219
9	11	21	39	62	141	233
Tls.	38	84	267	693	1181	2712

The total number of men registering was 246 and the ward totals for the week were as follows: Ward one, 34; ward two, 19; ward three, 32; ward four, 22; ward five, 21; ward six, 23; ward seven, 33; ward eight, 20; ward nine, 15.

Now, in order to determine the number of ballots that will be required at each precinct, it will be necessary for the registrars to get the female vote by precincts. It was taken only by wards and to get at it by precincts means a heap more work for the registrars.

Wards Unnecessary

"I cannot see," said a city official, "why it is necessary to mention wards in connection with an election under the new charter. Ward lines as well as party lines have been eliminated, but I understand that the law requires that the returns shall be made by wards and precincts. I think it would simplify matters to eliminate any mention of wards and make it 27 precincts."

Candidates for Nomination Withdraw
Three formal notices of withdrawal from the contest for nomination for alderman and school committee were filed at the office of the city clerk this forenoon. Patrick Joyce has withdrawn from the aldermanic contest, and Dr. James E. Leary and Thomas Mulhoney, Jr., from the school committee contest. It was stated at the city hall that others had said they would withdraw. For full list of candidates see official notice published on another page by the city clerk.

THE DIVORCE COURT

Several Decrees Were Granted by Judge Irwin Today

The uncontested session of the divorce court was opened in this city this morning with Justice Richard B. Irwin, former district attorney of Northampton, who was recently appointed Judge by Governor Foss presiding. The list contains 75 cases, and out of these five were disposed of this forenoon, and decrees nisi were granted.

The first case called was that of Mary Morgan Brooks of Cambridge vs. Charles W. Brooks of Boston. The libellant alleged cruel and abusive treatment.

John Francis Norton of Cambridge was also granted a decree nisi against Rose Silva Norton, both of Cambridge, on a charge of desertion.

In the case of Elizabeth A. Greer of Lowell vs. Robert Greer of parts unknown, the libellant alleged desertion, and she testified that they were married in Manchester, England, in 1892. Later she and her husband and their son came to Lowell, and when the child was 12 years of age the father deserted his family and he has not been seen since. The decree was granted.

"Life was pleasant for three months after we were married," so stated Catherine May Stevens in testifying in her divorce suit against her husband, John H. Stevens, both of Lowell, "but after that time," continued the witness,

"my husband abused me and finally deserted me." The decree was granted. In the case of William Bertrand vs. Henrietta Bertrand, both of Lowell, a decree nisi was granted on a charge of desertion. Mr. Bertrand when called to the witness stand related a tale of misfortune. He testified that he was married to Henrietta Bertrand in 1901. Six weeks later he arrived home one night and found that his furniture had been sold and that his better half was missing. A year later he met his wife and made peace and furnished another home for her. Twelve months later Henrietta again sold the household goods and went to parts unknown. After a period of eight months William again met his wife and again they became reconciled, and the home was furnished once more. This time the pair lived together for three months, during which time the husband built a comfortable home for himself and his wife. When the home was completed Henrietta asked her partner to deed it to her and upon his refusal, she "beat" it once more, and has not been seen since. The last time Henrietta left her husband's home was on Nov. 10, 1906, and previous to her going she told her husband's sister she wouldn't live with William all the time, for she married him for a home only. The decree was granted.

FOR ALDERMAN

Edward Cawley

Edward Cawley as candidate for alderman should appeal to all the people as a successful business man. He served one year in the legislature, two in the city council, and two as superintendent of streets. For the last 25 years he has been in the coal business on Rogers street and his reputation for honesty, integrity and honor should commend him to the confidence of all voters. Having made a success of every business in which he has engaged, he is the stamp of man needed in the municipal board to help in the work of giving our city a good, clean, efficient and progressive administration of affairs. It is therefore with confidence that I appeal to the citizens in general to make him one of the nominees for the municipal board.

As proof of the esteem in which he is held by prominent citizens, I give below the list of signatures who signed his nomination paper.

Signed,

TWO BOYS DROWNED

Thin Ice Gave Way Under Them

ADAMS, Nov. 20.—Thin ice claimed two victims here yesterday afternoon, when a 9-year-old son of Gottlieb Symonzik of Jordan street and a boy of 11 named Griffin, whose parents live on Crotteau street, were drowned in the Allen pond off Mill street.

The boys were playing on the pond and the stunt commonly known as the "ice box" was one of the diversions. During one of the slides the thin ice gave way and both boys went under. An alarm was given and several men rushed to the scene. In the meantime an older brother of Symonzik jumped into the water in an effort to save the boys, but himself came very near being a victim and it was with difficulty that he was pulled out by his father, who had reached the pond as he was struggling in the icy water.

The two boys who went under the ice were brought to the surface after about 20 minutes' search and taken to the home of James Kerr on North summer street, where physicians worked over them for nearly an hour but without avail.

The older Symonzik boy was restored after a few minutes' work by doctors and in a short time seemed none the worse for his experience.

The boys who were drowned are survived by their parents and several brothers and sisters.

HOUSE DESTROYED

Fire Caused a Loss of $60,000

BARRINGTON, R. I., Nov. 20.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the $60,000 unfinished country home of Benjamin A. Jackson, a Providence banker, at Narratt Point, yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, the blaze breaking out an hour after the owner had inspected the house and found everything in order.

The house was of brick, 2 1/2 stories high, contained 32 rooms and was intended for the winter and was to be one of the finest summer homes in Rhode Island. It had a floor space of 3500 square feet. Mr. Jackson was at lunch at his Providence home when he received word of the burning of his new house.

The contractors had fitted the house for the beginning of the hardwood finish of the interior and there was a furnace fire maintained in the basement to dry the plaster. This may have been the cause of the fire. There was no means of fighting the blaze and the interior was soon gutted.

For more than a year the building had been under construction and would have been ready for occupancy next August. Only the cracked walls and chimneys are standing. The building was covered by insurance and will be rebuilt.

Man Was Killed at Hyde Park Yesterday

HYDE PARK, Nov. 20.—Fred G. Pollett, aged 32, of the firm of Pollett & Corrigan, laundrymen, 78 West River street, sustained injuries in an automobile accident at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon from which he died at 4:30 at the Lincoln street hospital.

Friends who were with Mr. Pollett and escaped injury are Grand E. Grand, aged 31, of 235 West River street, and William H. Costley, aged 26, of 98 Pierce street. All of the men were unmarried.

The men were in a touring car owned by Mr. Pollett, which he had constructed from parts of several other cars. It is a sleek, low car, the rear of whose place of business about 100 feet from the street, entrance to the shed being between the laundry building and another block.

About 3 o'clock Mr. Pollett, who was driving the car, and his friends started from the shed for an afternoon ride. When they came to between the buildings to the street, Mr. Pollett turned toward the left in front of the laundry building, next to which, in Clear square is a large open collar about eight feet deep.

When the car reached the street the steering apparatus became unmanageable and the machine, skidding toward the excavation, into which it pitched after crashing through a fence.

Mr. Pollett was pinned beneath the car, which stood on end against the wall. His friends escaped by jumping before the car crashed through the fence.

Police Headquarters was notified of the accident and Lieut. Edward J. Welsh and others raised the car from Mr. Pollett. His stomach was badly crushed and one hip fractured. He was taken unconscious to the hospital in the police ambulance.

When the car reached the street the steering apparatus became unmanageable and the machine, skidding toward the excavation, into which it pitched after crashing through a fence.

Mr. Pollett was pinned beneath the car, which stood on end against the wall. His friends escaped by jumping before the car crashed through the fence.

Police Headquarters was notified of the accident and Lieut. Edward J. Welsh and others raised the car from Mr. Pollett. His stomach was badly crushed and one hip fractured. He was taken unconscious to the hospital in the police ambulance.

POPE WAS WARNED

Told That the Slightest Illness Might Prove Fatal

ROME, Nov. 20.—No longer is there a mystery about the sudden death of Pope Pius X. To hold a consistory this month for the election of 20 cardinals. He was warned by Dr. Mazzoni, of whom His Holiness demanded a candid statement, that the weakened condition of his system made it likely that an attack of gout or a chill, from which he has long been a sufferer, or the slightest illness of any character might prove fatal.

Until his latest illness His Holiness and all those about him felt confident that he had many years to live and that there was no hurry about filling the various cardinalates. It was even said that the pope had no intention of resigning this year and the announcement of his death had gone forth because it is the jubilee year of Italian unity and the loss of the pope's temporal power. The Vatican wanted to show its feelings by a nearly complete cessation of ceremonial work.

But after the interview with Dr. Mazzoni, His Holiness ordered the immediate preparation of a list of prelates from which he could make his selections and then announce his choices with the least possible delay.

VOTING MACHINE

Official Canvass to be Made of State Vote

Acting on the assumption that at the last state election the people of Massachusetts adopted the amendment to the state constitution, authorizing the use of voting machines at all elections, which matter will be definitely determined when the governor and council make their official canvass of the votes cast at the end of the present month, rather interesting discussions are heard at the state house.

What the expense is going to be to install voting machines, how many polling places and election officers will be required under the proposed new order of things, and what is going to be the cost of preparing the machines as against the present day cost of straight ballot voting, are among some of the matters discussed.

Transcending in importance, however, all the discussions in relation to voting machines and their use is that which pertains to the effect of the adoption of the people on election day of the constitutional amendment. It is asked: Can cities and towns now, by virtue of the adoption of this amendment, purchase and use voting machines without further legislation?

While there is a striking division of opinion among attorneys on this question, the best semi-official opinion on Beacon Hill is that there must be new legislation. The opposition to the view says that the law which has been on the statute for some years permitting the use of voting machines is revived by the verdict of the people.

Against this it is urged that when the supreme court decided in 1907 that the use of voting machines in elections for state officers, whom the constitution said should be chosen by "written votes," was unconstitutional, the existing legislation on the subject was rendered null and void and therefore there is nothing to "revive."

There is a second school of thought which believes that the provisions of the existing law referred to, against the directors are null and void, but that others, such as the provisions that cities and towns may use voting machines for municipal purposes only, are still effective. To which it is again replied that the entire law was either good or bad, and the supreme court said so.

The question of the constitutionality of the use of the voting machines was brought to the supreme court in 1907 by ex-Rep. Malcolm E. Nichols on a petition for a writ of mandamus to compel the board of education commissioners of Boston to provide the necessary machinery for use at the next election in precinct 6 of ward 10, instead of a certain ballot machine which the commissioners had voted to use.

OF DEFECTIVE HIGHWAYS

Kennedy vs. Mayor, etc., of City of Savannah.—A policeman is not by reason of his position as an employee of a city precluded from recovering damages from the city for personal injuries caused by the city's neglect to keep a highway in proper repair. Though a policeman employed by a city to patrol a particular beat so materially deviates from the route of duty as to be considered a private citizen, he is not to be held liable while on that beat that if the case were one falling under the ordinary law of master and servant he could not recover for his injury through his employer, and the law of master and servant applies as between a city and its police officers.—Court of Appeals of Georgia, 72 S. E. R. 160.

HOW IS YOUR WEIGHT?

While it is true that too much weight is not to be desired, the fact remains that many men and women are thin to the point of danger. This danger lies in their having no reserve force or nerve power to combat deadly diseases. A little extra flesh is needed by the body to keep it healthy, and this calls up the question of how to increase the weight. Physiologists and chemists, by experiments have solved the problem of increasing the weight of the white and red corpuscles of the blood, by the administration of 3 grain hypo-nutrine tablets, and this is always followed by an increase of weight. TEN LIVES LOST

Two Barges Crushed in a Mile-a-Minute Gale Off Block Island

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Nov. 20.—A mile-a-minute gale that thrashed the waters in the vicinity of Block Island into boiling seas Saturday and yesterday crushed two barges of the Scully Transportation company of New York into smithereens and, it is almost certain, carried to watery graves six or eight persons.

The barges, which succumbed to the wild onslaught of the storm after being torn from the tugs which were towing them from the three masted schooner barge Helen A. Wyman, formerly the William J. Rutch, which carried, it is believed, a crew of three men beside Capt. Robert Lund, and the smaller barge Vermont, which carried a master and one hand.

The list of probable victims is augmented by the fact that the masters are believed to have had their wives aboard with them. Still another victim was indicated when a child's stockings were found clinging to the wreckage, which washed ashore from the Vermont.

The western coast of Block Island was strewn with so much wreckage up to last night that Capt. Herbert M. Knowles, superintendent of the Narragansett life-saving district, expressed fear that three instead of two barges had gone down.

Although no word has come from the missing crews and others who may have been aboard the wrecked barges, it is believed by mariners here that there can be little doubt as to their fate.

No boat, such as the barges are equipped with, could have lived in the seas which proved too great for the barges themselves, in the opinion of Block Island's sea-wise natives. A patrol in search of bodies or further identifying wreckage was maintained by the lifesavers during the night.

Laden with coal, the Helen A. Wyman was bound from Boston from a southern port with the barge Shenandoah, both being in tow of the tug John P. Scully of a New York company.

During the heavy gale in the early morning the barges were cast adrift. The Shenandoah was later picked up by the Scully and anchored just outside Newport harbor.

Heavy seas tossed the barge Wyman about and unseated it almost to pieces. Although the tugs John P. Scully and Mary P. Scully, the latter bound west with three light barges in tow, made a search for the lost barge, no trace was found until long after daybreak, when the wreck was discovered nearly 12 miles southwest of here.

The Wyman was a total loss, the tugs arriving too late to be of any assistance. A search was instituted for the crew, but none of the life-saving stations in the vicinity had any news concerning them.

The Helen A. Wyman was 218 feet in length, 42 feet beam, 24 feet depth of hold and had a gross tonnage of 1521. She was built at Bath, Me., in 1881, and was owned by the Scully Transportation company of New York.

A large amount of wreckage, including the top of a small galley with the word Vermont painted in three-inch black letters, which was driven ashore on the west end of the island today, announced the wreck of the barge of Vermont.

Near Sandy Point 25 pieces of wreckage came ashore, including a hatch cover and the top of a house 18 by 15 feet. Near the west end of the companionway was found a child's stocking.

Carved on a piece of wood which was picked up was the name C. Nieman. The Vermont registered 210 tons and sailed from Perth-Amboy, N. J.

The barge was lost from the line of tow of the tug Hokendunka late yesterday and nothing had been heard about her until the wreckage came ashore. She carried a cargo of about 600 tons of coal.

STUDENTS IN A RIOT

Wildly Exciting Scene in Theatre at New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—A rigid inquiry will be made into the disturbance in the Hyperion Theatre Saturday night, by both the police and Yale University authorities.

It was the worst student riot that has occurred in New Haven in many years. As a result the theatre is a wreck with several thousand dollars damage done; seven students were arrested, one with a wounded head, and a Brooklyn lawyer who tried to argue with an officer was kept in the police station until bailed out by Dean Frederick S. Jones of Yale.

Gaby Deslys herself was so unnerved after the riot, during which she had huddled in her dressing room, that she could only say, "O, it was a disgrace tonight, and I am so sorry. But last night it was very nice and everybody was very nice also."

Statements Greatly Differ. In the excitement which attended the ejection of students from the theatre by the police after the stage hands had turned on a hose and drenched many in the audience, the hand-to-hand conflict on the street outside, and the lively scenes at police headquarters, statements as to the origin of the trouble greatly differed.

The audience in the theatre had been a happy and jubilant one until about 9:30 o'clock, the student body and Yale Alumni joining heartily in the singing of college songs which the chorus of Gaby Deslys' company had started.

"We Want Gaby." It looked as if something would happen early in the week when Gaby Deslys was substituted for Fritz Scheff, who had been booked and the price of seats raised to $3. The Yale News printed a demand that the theatre be boycotted and this cry arose in the theatre Saturday night when the curtain was rung down at 9:45 and the crowd was told the play had been cut by the police censor.

"We want Gaby," yelled the students, who had been orderly up to that time. There was no response and a student ran up on the stage. He was followed by others until there were 50 or 60 there trying to raise the asbestos curtain.

The chorus girls ran to their dressing rooms. The students smashed the footlights and began on the orchestra chairs. There were demands for the manager, but Mr. Eldridge kept out of sight. The stage hands defended the stage with crowbars and then turned a hose on the students. The force of the water was such that several women in the audience had costly gowns drenched and ruined.

Boston Man Involved. Outside the students stoned the Hyperion sign. The police then arrested Louis B. Bomelster of Brooklyn, brother of the famous Yale end, Norman H. Read of Boston, substitute center on the Yale team and son of a capitalist, tried to give Bomelster his hat and was also arrested.

Bomelster's scalp was broken by the clubbing. James A. Hawes, a New York lawyer, went to the station to see if he couldn't do something for Bomelster and was arrested for breach of the peace and resisting an officer. Dean Frederick S. Jones of Yale went bail for him, the charges later being dropped and an apology given.

Charles H. Rider, Samuel A. Dyer of the Yale crew and Louis Cowick, the latter in his pajamas, William J. Burns Jr. and John L. Doger, all students, were arrested for breach of the peace. Dean Jones will stand back of them. E. W. Eldridge, manager of the Hyperion Theatre, asked police protection for himself and his company. He claims that he was escorted home by a thorough and cowardly of the New Haven police. He demanded the show be shortened, but the chief says his demand was that there be nothing low.

DEAN JONES STILL SAYS MEN ARRESTED DID NOT CAUSE TROUBLE. NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—The cases of Yale undergraduates arrested during the disturbance outside the Hyperion theatre Saturday night were not called in the city court today. It had been arranged that the hearings if held shall be on Saturday. Meantime an inquiry has been opened by both the police and college authorities and it promises to be a thorough one. Among college men the belief is held that the charges against the students will be nipped. They are demanding that the inquiry into the whole affair be without fear or favor. Repairs are being made in Hyperion theatre and the estimate of the damage has risen above $1000. Manager Eldridge is in at his home from the effects of the trouble. He was given, at his own request, police protection to his home on Saturday evening, although there was no evidence that any person had threatened him. Mr. Eldridge claims that his theatre was not given sufficient police protection and states that he has consulted counsel on the question of bringing suit against the city.

Dean Jones of the college in a statement today officially exonerates the students arrested from responsibility in the disturbance. He will investigate to ascertain who were the ringleaders in the riot and says it is an injustice to throw the brunt of the affair upon the men arrested. He says further that whatever action is taken by the college will not be against the men arrested, as he has evidence to show they were not responsible. The Yale News, in reviewing the disturbance from the point of view of Yale men, deprecates it and adds that "for once at least in the history of the world it seems as though the students of Yale have explanations and apologies coming to them. We are wondering if those involved will be men enough to present themselves voluntarily or if it will be necessary to drag them out by brute force of the best public opinion."

Court Garin, F. of A. was recently annexed to Court Samuel de Champlain of the same order, and the latter court is now one of the largest in the city. It is not the largest. The change was made in order to reduce expenses and to arouse more activity among the members of both courts. The organization will now be known as Court Samuel de Champlain, and its first meeting will be held tomorrow evening in Foresters hall, Middle street. The nomination of officers will be held on the first Tuesday in December, while the election will take place on the third Tuesday of the same month.

Court Garin was instituted on Dec. 17, 1900, and was named after the late Rev. F. Garin, O. M. I., and its charter members numbered 52. Its first chief ranger was Hon. Joseph H. Hibbard. The court at the time of its affiliation to Court Samuel de Champlain counted about 235 members and had the substantial sum of $2500 in its treasury, while the other court numbered 92 and its treasury was about $5000. Court Samuel de Champlain retains its name for the fact that its treasury was larger than the other court.

The chief ranger of Court Garin at the time of its affiliation was James St. Hilaire, while the present chief ranger of both courts is Joseph Lemire.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Owing to numerous demands for tickets for Thanksgiving day, the Opera House management announces that tickets for the afternoon and evening performance of that date will be placed on sale Monday morning, Nov. 20th. The attraction for that date will be the thrilling western drama, "Billy the Kid," which has been booked for Wednesday and Thursday Nov. 23 and 24.

MAUDE ADAMS

"Chanticleer," the much announced, will reach the Lowell Opera House on Dec. 5. One genuine surprise, the prologue, is in store for the audience, however, despite the fuss and feathers that have been made about this production. For, previous to the play, dressed in a simple white gown, Miss Adams appears before the restless crowd and she holds it down, introducing her public to the scene. While she talks, the birds and the life of the farmyard answer her. She explains that the stage folk are small and comparatively insignificant and that human beings must view the scene as it is, through a magnifying glass. For in reality she holds the illusion in all the acts, the inanimate objects have been made huge in scale. There is a straw hat six feet in diameter, a pair of trousers sixteen feet long, a wooden shoe children could play hide and seek in, together with endless details made real, that comprise this fascinating and interesting scenery.

Miss Adams' appearance outside of the costume role has been announced of course; but so slightly is the nature of it realized that when she appears before the footlights there falls a second illusion, the audience understands the situation and we witness her with the enthusiasm she always receives. Yet, somehow, her showing here to be the real Miss Adams of the old days, makes the crowded theatre wait all the more impatiently through the novel and amusing opening minutes of the play to see how she will appear as "Chanticleer" himself.

Mail orders for this engagement are now being accepted. Box office sale opens Nov. 28.

ROBBED OF $271.24

SALEM MAN HELD UP AT BRUNSWICK, ME.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Nov. 20.—Albert Leblanc of Salem, Mass., who is visiting his uncle, Callais Bernier, on Prospect street, was held up by two masked highwaymen about 12:30 yesterday morning and robbed of $271.24. Mr. Leblanc recently patented an invention which he expects to sell to a Chicago man, and came to Topsham for a short visit before going west.

Saturday evening he spent with his cousin, John Fortin, in Brunswick. About midnight he went to the railroad station to see about getting his ticket for Chicago, and the street for his uncle's home. When he reached the Topsham end of the suspension bridge, two men stepped out from behind a tree, and pointing revolvers at him, ordered him to throw up his hands.

Another search was made, and the highwaymen then ran. Leblanc reported his loss to the Topsham and Brunswick police, who hunted in vain for the men for several hours.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

"The batteries for today are—"

Or, rather, the headlines for this week at Keith's are the celebrated Red Sox quartet, "Buck" O'Brien, Martin McAllister, Hugh Bradley and Bill Lyons. Big leaguers in vaudeville, even as they are on the diamond, and on singing are the class A goods. Since the close of the baseball season this quartet has been on the Keith circuit and has been making good every minute for, unlike the prize fighters who become actors and who are seen only through curiosity, these boys are possessed of fine voices and would be a bit if they had no baseball reputation. All are well known to Lowell fans, three of the four having played ball in the New England league, while Bradley is well remembered as a fine baritone singer in this city, having many friends here.

The four numbers will include: "When Men and I Company," "The Garden of My Heart," by "Buck" O'Brien, "Any Old Port to a Storm," by Bill Lyons, and "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," by Hugh Bradley. On the bill with the Red Sox are the Four Birds, the world's greatest vocalists, a series of new songs, Lucille Laverne and company, including James Thatcher, a local favorite, will present a charming comedy playlet, entitled "How Jasper Fixed It."

Miss Laverne was the comedy hit of Keith's Boston theatre, and a few seasons ago was the favorite of the Boston theatre stock company. She was with William Gillette for four seasons and she created the part of "Clancy" in the original production of "Clarence." She wrote and played the leading part in "Anna Floyd," now being presented by the Schuberts, Monroe and Mack.

The "New Recruits," are two of the finest comedians in vaudeville on the stage. Carlin and Penn are German dialect comedians. The Elliotts have one of the best musical acts in vaudeville. They play on harps and violins exclusively, and are high class musicians. Paul LeCroy, the mud baller, has an interesting and popular act as a comedian. Madden and Nugent present "Too Many Darlings," a veritable scream. And besides there are pictures and a program by Keith's new orchestra, Arthur Martel leader. Seats may be ordered in advance by telephone, $11.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Donald Meek stock company this week will present Anthony Willis' beautiful comedy-drama, "The Struggle," a play much akin in character to David Warfield's great success, "The Music Master," though having considerable comedy in its make-up, unlike "The Music Master." While the story is such as to bring out some pathetic incidents which the play is not what would be popularly called a "sad" play and any inclination to tears is speedily checked by the frequent flashes of bright comedy. The story is that of the struggle for existence of a German tailor and his family of the East Side in New York. The family consists of a daughter just budding into womanhood and a younger adopted daughter. The older daughter falls in love with an actor and persisting in receiving his attentions despite her parents' objections, is turned from home. The parents thus depriving themselves of her support. Through business reverses they are reduced to poverty and the father while a member of the jury, spurning the request of an unscrupulous wealthy man who is in legal trouble to act dishonestly, becomes the victim of the victim's wrath and is being crowded to the wall when the daughter who has married the actor and married well returns to her home and upon learning of her parents' plight immediately comes to their financial aid and makes them comfortable for the remainder of their days while they become reconciled to her and her husband. Through the story runs a light side furnished by two comedy characters, a lively young newspaper man who is always around and a funny German character, the former played by Mr. Meek and the latter by Mr. Walsh.

Mr. Stevens and Miss Hunt appear as the parents and Miss Sperry as the daughter while Miss Langdon appears as the younger daughter. The play is in four acts and will be elaborately staged and presented under the personal direction of Mr. Meek. Today is chocolate matinee day and each lady holding a reserved seat ticket receives a box of choice chocolates.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

What looks to be one of the strongest attractions booked at the Merrimack Square theatre in many, many weeks, will open up a week's engagement at this popular playhouse on the afternoon. The program includes five big vaudeville acts, and judging from the advance notices, which precede them one would naturally conclude that the management had secured a collection of entertainers that are sure of enjoying a most successful run.

There's variety to the offering so that if one act is not quite to your particular liking you are sure of seeing something that will please. Look over the list and judge for yourself. First and foremost there's the New York Seven Hippodrome Lions in an animal act that is said to be unequalled on the vaudeville stage today. The fact alone that this collection of perfect specimens of the forest played a long and successful engagement at the New York hippodrome, the largest theatre in the world, is assurance enough, at least should be, that it's above normal. The animals are caged up freely and are put through an interesting series of tricks in full view of the audience. If animal acts, more especially those which are attended with just a tinge of danger on the part of those who take an active part in them, appeal to you, it's safe to say that this offering will do so.

Then there's Melvin and Thatcher, two unusually clever comedians who will appear in a laughable sketch entitled "The Baseball Fans." The piece is cleverly put together and contains numerous funny situations and sayings. It's an enjoyable bit of entertainment and should set the local fans on edge. It went "bog" in every other city where given and should in Lowell.

"At the Capital," one of Miss Louise Rogers Stanwood's brightest sketches, will be the weekly presentation by Our Stock company. Miss Stanwood is responsible for several excellent short story sketches and the one to be given this week is said to be among her very best. The young woman is a Radcliffe college girl. Mr. Weston will be seen in the leading male character and Miss Constance Jackson, whose clever interpretation of the various parts in which she has appeared has made her universally popular with local theatregoers, will again appear in a character best suited to her talent.

Mack and Vincent are clever comedians and Ah Ling Foo is a real Chinese magician who gives an interesting exhibition of his work.

The Merrimack Square Theatre concert orchestra, Phil M. Lederman, leader, Miss Marion Payne, pianist, will feature selections Friday night of that popular opera "The Tar and The Tartar."

BISHOP GROUND, O.M.I.

Tells of Work of Oblate Fathers Among the Indians

Mgr. Emile Jean Marie Grouard, O. M. I., bishop of Iloilo and vicar apostolic of Athabasca-Mackenzie, the region that extends farthest north in the Dominion of Canada, was yesterday the guest of the Oblate Fathers of St. Joseph and Notre-Dame de Lourdes parishes.

The distinguished prelate is on a journey across the continent collecting funds for his missions in the far north. Yesterday forenoon he preached at high mass at St. Jean Baptiste church, and last night he also delivered a sermon at vespers at Notre-Dame de Lourdes church. He left this morning for the Tewksbury novitiate where he will spend a few days after which he will be the guest of Mgr. Provost of the Fall River diocese.

Mgr. Grouard was born in Sable (le Mans), a department in France, 71 years ago; he was ordained to the priesthood on May 3, 1882; his profession, he made the year following, on Nov. 21, 1883. While still a young priest he was sent to the missions of Athabasca, and has been there ever since, a period of about 28 years, spent in the utmost privation, and in company with savages and ignorant trappers. He has performed work of every kind, from his own household duties in that foreign country to saving the boards that went to make the first mission.

Fr. Grouard was appointed to the position of director of all the missions of Athabasca on Oct. 18, 1896, and was consecrated bishop on Aug. 1, 1897. There are now 15 regularly constituted missions in Athabasca-Mackenzie, and these are managed by 24 Oblate Fathers, and until lately, 27 lay brothers. From these missions, missionaries go out to the various tribes of Indians, most of whom are nomad. The misfortunes which these missions have undergone in the past year are the cause of the bishop's visit to the United States, in the effort to interest people in them and obtain help.

The bishop's sermon at St. Jean Baptiste church yesterday morning was simple, and it recalled some of the hardships and some of the good work accomplished among the Indians of that country. The prelate spoke in part as follows: "I will take you in spirit to Canada, to that part of it lying beyond Alberta, Saskatchewan and those other western provinces of Canada, to the immense and empty north of that, and which is practically a closed country, for the railroad goes only as far as Edmonton and there stops. After that, it is a struggle to get on, and the region where my missions are, Athabasca, is a cold country and extends as far north as the pole, in fact, I myself have gone as far as the edge of the North sea. It is inhabited by wild animals and tribes of Indians who have hunting and fishing as their only means of existence. The only part of that vast territory that would lend itself to cultivation is in the vicinity of the Peace river and Lake Athabasca; all the rest is frozen ground and it is only with the greatest of difficulty that the fathers at the missions are able to cultivate a small potato patch for their use. At present there is a report that some enterprising firm is to undertake the colonization of part of that territory, and if so, I would dearly like to see some of the French there.

"There was no law, either religious or civil, among the Indians; the Hudson Bay Trading Co. had established trading posts here and there throughout the country, and the natives brought their furs here from time to time in exchange for some trifles or sometimes, utensils of which they are in dire need. However, there was a ray of intelligence in these savage tribes and I was very much impressed by it as I will prove in a moment by an incident.

"When I, a missionary, arrived there, I had first to learn the language of the Indians, and that in itself was a very difficult task, for there were no books, and only intercourse with the Indians themselves could teach me the language. Then the next step was to build a mission, or chapel, and for this, when I first went there, for instance, the missionary had to do the work himself. I had even to make the boards for the flooring, while what little help I was able to get from the Indians, I had to pay for in trade, such as the Hudson Bay company does. However, after I had succeeded in converting one of them, an Indian lad of about 16 years of age, I had a conversation with him in which he told me that he knew there was a God before I came. I asked him how he came to know, and he told me the following story: 'One day, while I was on a long hunt, I came to a beautiful lake. The weather was beautiful and everything looked so lovely that I told myself that there must be some one greater than anyone who had made all these beautiful things. When you came and told me, then I knew and believed there was a God.'

"Words were unknown in that region, among the Indians especially, and the women were treated like beasts of burden. We instructed them in the creation of the world and of man and woman; also in regard to

Teacher of Singing

SPEAKS ON AN INTERESTING TOPIC

P. Waldron Edmonds, who is a graduate from the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, and who is a well known professor of singing in this city, made the following statement recently in connection with "Tona Vita," the remarkable new tonic that is now being introduced in Lowell at the Hall & Lyon drug company.

He said: "Having given 'Tona Vita' a fair trial for several weeks, I can speak with confidence regarding it. It certainly does all and more than is claimed for it, for brain fog, tired, run down feeling, nervous prostration, and during convalescence it is excellent. I should especially advise singers and people using the voice much, such as actors, and all public speakers, to give 'Tona Vita' an opportunity of showing its efficiency as a bracer. I feel sure that they will endorse my opinion. I shall certainly recommend it to my pupils as I consider it without an equal as an invigorating product."

The specialists who are introducing "Tona Vita" in Lowell are giving demonstrations of what the medicine will do in two minutes. All day long they meet callers at the store where they are located and try to produce a noticeable improvement in all cases of nervous debility within five minutes, the people who take the medicine to be the judge. There is no charge for this demonstration, and several hundred people tried the experiment recently without a single failure.

One of the specialists said: "Tona Vita" will break all records in Lowell like it is doing in all big cities of this country today. We are instructed by our company to take no money for the tonic unless the medicine proves satisfactory. Hundreds upon hundreds in this and other large towns are afflicted with nervous debility caused by the strain of modern city life.

"The entire system becomes run down in such cases and nervousness, stomach trouble, headaches, backaches, dizziness and loss of vitality result. 'Tona Vita' will cure all these conditions in a remarkably short time. It doesn't, we want nothing other than the tonic it takes to come and get the medicine."

The specialists will be at the Hall & Lyon Drug Co. daily between the hours of 9 a. m. and 8 p. m., where they will meet all callers and explain the nature of their new preparation.

the laws of marriage. They came to believe these truths and came to us to be baptized, and before long, we had established several happy households among the poor Indians. One instance in particular, when a powerful chief with three wives had resisted strenuously, several attempts by different missionaries to convert him, finally came to us and his entire family was baptized and became Catholic. It happened in this way. One day he was on a hunt and had his three lodges with him. Breaking camp suddenly one day, he came to the mission and asked the priest to show him how to pray, but the missionary, before giving him the sacrament, imposed the condition that he must choose one wife from among his three and let the other two go their way. This was a puzzle for the chief, but he finally decided upon the oldest one. The second oldest had a son, 18 years old, who promised to look after her, and they, too, were baptized. The youngest wife and her children were looked after by the chief, and thus, the entire family were baptized and their sinful mode of living was righted.

"The misery among most of these Indians is frightful, and the sin that we sometimes hear of, heart-rending. For instance, a woman once came to me, crying as though her heart would break, and claiming that she had committed a horrible sin. I asked her what she had done, and she told me that while on a hunting trip with her husband, they had had very poor success, and that through lack of food, her little girl, only five months old, had died. Both she and her husband also were slowly starving to death, and when the Indian saw his little dead daughter, he ordered his wife to cut her up and provide food for the two of them so that they would not starve. This she refused to do at first, but threats on the part of her husband proved stronger than her feelings and she did as she was told, but refused to eat any of the flesh. When I asked her about the sin she had committed, she admitted that she had drunk some of the broth, to keep from starving."

The reverend gentleman concluded with an earnest appeal to the generosity of the parishioners and also spoke briefly on the general characteristics of the Indians of that country.

CHELMSFORD

William H. Dooley, superintendent of the Lowell Industrial school, will speak before the Chelmsford Boys' club on industrial education next Friday afternoon. On the same afternoon James Kilbird, master of the North Chelmsford Boy Scouts, will speak on "First Aid to the Injured." On Thursday last Eben T. Adams spoke on town government.

A BAD RUNAWAY ACCIDENT AT BRAINTREE

BRAINTREE, Nov. 20.—Four persons were thrown out of a carriage which was overturned after being in collision with an automobile on Quincy avenue, Braid street, after a runaway accident. Mrs. William R. Williams of 120 Liberty street, Quincy, who was in the carriage, was injured. The horse was driven by Mr. Williams and was attached to a two-seated demograt wagon in which besides Mr. and Mrs. Williams were their child and another woman, who did not give her name. The wagon, an electric car and an automobile in which was Rep. Wm. R. Thomas of Quincy came on the bridge all at the same time.

The horse became frightened at the sudden crossing of the roadway and started to plunge and rear, and the wagon to strike the automobile, bending one of the mudguards and turning the carriage over. The occupants were thrown out, but the horse was grabbed before he had a chance to drag the overturned carriage.

Mrs. Williams sustained a sprained ankle and was taken home in Quincy. The others suffered only a shaking up.

FORMER PASTOR

Preached at the Kirk Street Church

The Rev. W. A. Bartlett, D. D., was right at home yesterday at the Kirk Street Congregational church. He is a former pastor of that church and loves Lowell and her people. He delivered the morning sermon yesterday and had for his subject the simple text: "Why Jesus Came." He found his inspiration in the passage, "For the earth bringeth forth fruit for herself, first the blade, then the ear and then the full corn in the ear." He said in part:

"I was once hanging onto a strap in a street car very much ill at ease and out of humor with the world. An old gentleman standing beside me called my attention to the beautiful sunset. I looked out of the window and at the great row of purple hills outlined against a mass of gorgeous colored scarlet and gold clouds with their fascinating changes in coloring as the twilight fell. Soon I was lost in as beautiful a sight as I ever saw in Europe. Not even in the Alps could one have hoped to have found a more beautiful sunset. I forgot all about my discomfort and I forgot all that old verse: 'I will look up into the hills whence cometh my help.' That is often the trouble with us when we are unhappy; we have not looked up into the hills, we have only looked down at our own little selves. We turn up and around ourselves, we must see the beauty which God has placed around us at every hand. Even the bare tree trunks have a beauty. The woods in winter seem only to be in some beautiful sleep and not dead. Every season has its beauty if we will only look around us and see it."

"And when we try to conceive of what sort of a man Jesus was, we find that above all things he was an outdoor man. All throughout his life, we find him outdoors, in the field, in the little fishing boats and on the crowded streets of the cities. He began his ministry in the fields, he was baptized in the river Jordan, his praying closet was on the tops of mountains, his hour of agony was in the Garden of Gethsemane, his transfiguration took place in the mountains, and his death was on a little hill, and his body was nailed to the trunks of trees. In all his parables he gets the people to look around them by his allusions to the blades of grass, the corn in the fields, and the grapes on the hillside, to the olive tree and the fig, to the foxes and the other animals of the field, and to all the outdoor occupations of men such as the fisherman, the sower and the tillers of the soil."

"But although Jesus was an outdoor man, he never told us that we could worship God through an appreciation of nature only. We find a great many people who feel that on these fine autumn days they can worship God more truly out in the country and surrounded by the beauties of nature than they can in any stuffy church. But the trouble with people is that they usually go too fast to get much admiration or even appreciation of nature. And admiration although it does partake of the nature of worship, can never become a substitute for it, even in the slightest degree. Worship in spirit never rises to higher places than that which is attained in prayer."

"We all take great delight in our gardens. And how extremely urgent we are about them. Most of you have probably done all of your fall planting by this time. And when we were preparing them we found ourselves bound by the fixed and inexorable laws of nature. We had to pay great attention to the laws of sun and moisture and the particular make-up of the plant we have set out in the ground to work out its purpose."

"Jesus in his parables is not interested in the development of the animal or of the plants, but he was interested in the laws which they exemplified. The kingdom of God which is in everyone is governed by just as inexorable laws. Men are oftentimes heard to express that old attitude toward religion; that religion is merely a matter of sentiment and mere opinion. But the law is just as true in the case of man as it is with the plants and animals. There is no deviation from the rule that 'as a man sows, so shall he also reap.' As a man speaks and lives, so shall his reward be, and that is his religion."

Church Choirs Sing

The choir of the Unitarian, First Universalist, and Kirk Street churches united last night in singing Arthur Sullivan's oratorio, "The Prodigal Son," in the latter church. The solos were by the members of the Kirk Street quartet, the music being under the direction of Edward R. Wirt. Arthur C. Spaulding was at the organ.

The Woman Who Doesn't Know

Merely orders "flour."

And the grocer thinks that she doesn't care.

But she does.

What woman lacks pride in her baking?

But she doesn't know how flours differ.

Else she doesn't think.

And, by leaving the choice to someone else, she gets the wrong flour at times.

Gold Medal Flour is selected flour. It comes from the heart of the wheat.

It is the sifted-out flour—the perfect flour—which comes through ten sheets of fine silk.

None but this cream of the flour is ever branded Gold Medal. Yet lesser grades—hundreds of them—cost just as much as this.

This is the flour which has come to outsell every other flour in existence. You'll get it always when you find it out.

ENGINE ON RAMPAGE

Left B. & M. Roundhouse From Unknown Cause

The big mogul engine No. 1339 of the local division of the Boston & Maine which was supposed to "stand without hitching" in the roundhouse when not in operation, played a crazy freak yesterday and after drawing another engine out of the track slipped a big hole in the brick wall of the roundhouse and wound up in Hale's brook.

the parlance of the railroad men it "just went crazy."

According to employees of the railroad engine 1339 after its daily run on Saturday was backed into the roundhouse and kept for the night. The fire was banked for the night and the steam allowed to remain in it, as usual.

About 10 o'clock yesterday it suddenly started up and with steam escaping in wild disorder, tore out of the roundhouse and proceeded toward the main tracks. When nearing the turntable, it struck another large freight engine, tossing it from the rails.

Then a strange thing occurred, for the wild engine instead of continuing in the direction it had started suddenly went back into the roundhouse as fast as it had come out. Striking the double brick wall in the rear, the tender went through it as though it were of paper and dropped into Hale's brook, a distance of nearly 20 feet, turning completely over as it dropped. The engine followed and dropped on top of the tender, where it remained, snorting as the steam escaped and its wheels revolving in the air until a venturesome railway employee climbed into the cab and got to the lever, shutting off the steam.

The few employees of the road who were in the vicinity state positively that no one was in the roundhouse at the time.

A wrecking crew worked all afternoon in an unsuccessful attempt to get the engine back into the roundhouse but this morning the engine was lifted back to terra firma and the wreck cleared so that little remained but the gaping breach in the roundhouse wall to indicate that any such accident had occurred. The engine was badly wrecked.

PRINCESS INDITA

TO BECOME THE BRIDE OF A CHINESE

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 20.—Princess Indita, a full-blooded Indian beauty, though she would be taken for a white if she did not proudly claim the late Indian chief Gray Eagle, a Sioux, as her father, arrived in Seattle today on her way to Honolulu to wed John Henry Magoon, a wealthy Chinaman. Magoon owns and operates a string of theatres in the Hawaiian Islands.

Princess Indita, while only 19 and a graduate of the Regis Institute at Plainfield, N. J., and possessing a fortune in her own right, has travelled around the world to find the man she loves, and she found him in a Chinaman. Chicago she cordially hates. It was the first large city she visited after having graduated from the institute, when she donned the clothes of the white and was started on a tour of the world.

"Civilization in Chicago is a sham," declared the petite Indian beauty at the Seattle hotel. "The women of Chicago are perfect cats and they force one like me born in the tepee to long to get back to nature and the woods, as I will as soon as Mr. Magoon and I are married."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

In a close and exciting game of soccer football at North Chelmsford Saturday the home team defeated the Bunting, scoring one goal, while the visitors failed to score, Gabriel Audoin refereed.

At the masses in St. John's church yesterday Rev. Fr. Schofield made public acknowledgment of the gift to the church of the beautiful painting of "The Madonna of the Clouds," by Miss Sadie Leahy, a talented young resident of the parish. After the second mass the painting was blessed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Schofield, who thanked the donor in behalf of the church and congregation of which he was pastor.

Fr. Schofield also announced to the congregation that he had the pleasure of being among many who were present at the sailing of Cardinal O'Connell for Rome and was the first one to shake his hand upon his arrival on the ship. He said that the day was not far distant when there would be an American pope ruling over the Roman Catholic church. While there were many there who might never live to see it, there were many in the congregation who would remember his words.

During his remarks he took occasion to congratulate the classes of boys from the Training school, who during the past few Sundays had received holy communion in the church, and especially the class of small boys, who were present at the morning service. He also referred to the appointment of the superintendent of the school and spoke of the splendid work that had been done under the acting superintendent, Mr. Massie.

A meeting of all the men of the parish was called for 7 o'clock in the evening in St. John's hall for the formation of a society that would be of benefit to the parish. He impressed upon the parishioners that any assistance that they showed to Fr. Doherty would be appreciated by him, as any movement started by Fr. Doherty had his full consent and hearty support. At the meeting held last night there was a large number of men, young and old present. The plans submitted by the committee at the previous meeting were received favorably and by the spirit shown last night the society will be great benefit to the men of the parish, for it was a long felt want. The officers elected were as follows: President John J. Monahan, vice president, James P. Quigley; secretary, Gabriel Audoin and treasurer, Rev. M. F. Doherty. The board of directors is to be elected at the next meeting, and the society will be known as "The Catholic Club" of St. John's parish. Fifty-one members enrolled on the charter last night and it was voted to hold the charter open for thirty days.

The sodality will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night at 7.30 in the church and as the officers for the coming year are to be elected a large number will be present.

The Knights of the Sacred Heart will hold their weekly meeting Thursday night at 7.30. The members are progressing rapidly under the guidance of Frank J. Haggerty of the O. M. L. Cadets of Lowell. The boys are hustling selling tickets for their concert next Sunday evening in the town hall which will be one of the best, as the best of talent has been secured.

FOUGHT A FIRE

COMPOSITORS SUCCEEDED IN EXTINGUISHING BLAZE

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The Boston Post compositors turned firefighters shortly after their paper had gone to press today when a fire started in Child's cafe on the first floor of the Post building. In a smoke-filled room the compositors got out two emergency hose and turned a stream on the burning restaurant beneath them. The blaze was extinguished with a loss of about $500. The fire is believed to have been caused by defective wiring.

IRISH N. FORESTERS

Observed Martyrs Day at Leather Workers Hall

At Leather Workers hall yesterday afternoon, Brauch O'Neil Crowley, Irish National Foresters, held a largely attended meeting in memory of the slain

PATRICK LINEHAN, Chief Ranger Irish National Foresters

chester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, executed Nov. 23, 1847, at Manchester, England, for implication in the rescue of two Fenian prisoners in which a policeman was fatally shot. Mr. Maurice Hannan presided and after a business meeting at which several candidates were initiated, he delivered an address of welcome to the members and guests.

Mr. Edward J. Gallagher, who had been invited to deliver an address on the occasion, spoke of the men in various ages who had died for the cause of Irish freedom. He reviewed the Fenian insurrections of 1848 and 1857 and pointed out the reforms that had followed the work of the patriots who showed a willingness to die for the cause they espoused. He then dwelt upon the Manchester rescue in which five men were convicted under a single verdict. On the protest of newspaper reporters that one of the men convicted was not guilty and that there was no evidence to connect him with the crime, Thomas Maguire was liberated. Captain Edward O'Meara, an American citizen, was relieved because he was an American citizen and he it was who originated the cry "God Save Ireland!" with which the three men executed ascended the scaffold.

Passing from the physical force policy, the speaker told the magnificent results of constitutional agitation, showing that it had restored the land to the people, had given them better schools and a national university, together with many other reforms that have already made Ireland fairly prosperous. He quoted from stirring speeches of Premier Asquith, Secretary Birrell and John E. Redmond, showing that the home rule bill to be introduced early next year is already trusted and that it will be superior to that offered by Gladstone in 1886. In the past high hopes had been held out for the passage of a home rule measure but it was absolutely impossible so long as the house of lords held the veto power. That power has already been abolished and any measure passed at two successive sessions of parliament will become law without the concurrence of the lords. He predicted a new era of prosperity for Ireland under home rule and that self government would soon be extended to Wales and Scotland. He said the United Kingdom would have a government more responsive to the popular will than that of most republics. The change he said would benefit both countries in bringing about a commercial cooperation that would enable them to compete far more successfully with other countries in the markets of the world.

A musical and literary program followed in which the following participated: James McCready, James P. McCready, Michael Conway, Patrick Linehan, chief ranger; William Meloney, James Fitzgerald, Joseph Spillane, Thomas Nevin, Timothy Wholey. Chief Ranger Linehan sang selections in the Gaelic tongue.

The committee in charge was: James McCready, chairman; Timothy Wholey, Secretary Nevin and Chief Ranger Linehan.

OFFICER DONOVAN

WELL KNOWN LAWRENCE POLICE OFFICER IS DEAD

LAWRENCE, Nov. 20.—Policeman John J. Donovan, aged 51 years, for 25 years an active member of the Lawrence police department and well known in Lowell, died suddenly at his home, 528 Andover street, at 10.30 on Sunday night. Officer Donovan had not been feeling well for about a year past, but had been up and about as usual. Sunday afternoon at 1.30 he was stricken with a shock. He lapsed into unconsciousness from which condition he did not recover. He leaves a brother, Charles Donovan, and two sisters, Mrs. McDermott and Miss Ellen Donovan, both of Greenwich, N. Y. He did not do any police work since early last summer.

John J. Donovan was appointed a patrolman in 1885, by Mayor James R. Simpson. He was a member of the Police Relief association. As an officer he always gave satisfactory results.

It Is Very Important

That You Should Get the

Best Parlor Stove Made

Not only because you want heat and plenty of heat. The cheapest kind of heating stove will give you all the heat you want. But a cheap stove will wear out quickly and you will have to buy another one—and that costs money. A cheaply built stove will burn twice as much coal in giving the same amount of heat that a CRAWFORD STOVE would. So your cheap stove is no longer a cheap stove, but a dear—a very dear—stove.

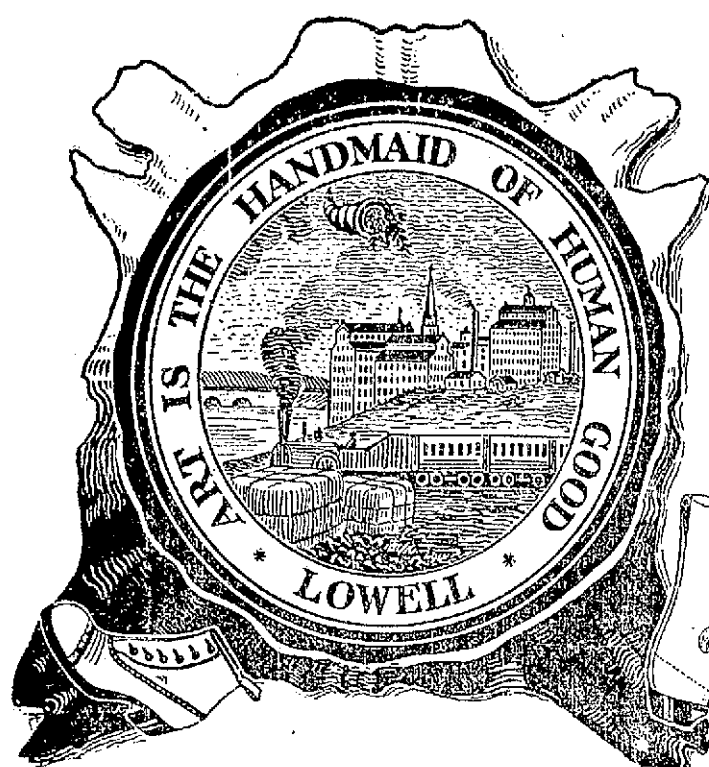

In a cheap stove you have a roaring big fire for a while and then your fire goes out, and that means a lot of trouble. With a CRAWFORD HEATING STOVE you can keep your fire going from now till next spring with less coal, less time and less trouble than any stove made and it will last a lifetime.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1910 was

15,976

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is the week in which the people of Lowell can decide whether they will have good government or bad. It all depends upon their choice of candidates.

Today the open season for the shooting of deer west of the Connecticut river arrives, and hunters will doubtless make the most of it, if they take sufficient care not to mistake one another for deer.

It is wrong to bring the religious issue into any political contest and particularly a contest for the school board. It matters not how, where or by whom the mischief started it is a short sighted blunder and can result only in injury to all concerned.

Now that we are on the verge of the skating season we presume there will be the usual number of victims of thin ice. It is wonderful what recklessness young people show in venturing upon thin ice without taking the slightest precaution to test its strength.

WERE VOTES PURCHASED?

If, as is alleged, votes were openly purchased in New Bedford in an effort to defeat Governor Foss in the recent election the matter should be thoroughly investigated. It is charged that failure to pay the amount agreed upon for votes has brought the matter to public attention. If there can be found evidence sufficient to convict, the guilty parties should be punished with the utmost severity.

JEWISH AMERICANS DEMAND PROTECTION

There is no reason why our government should not protect American citizens who are Jews in their rights when they see fit to go to Russia. There has been too much connivance at the abuses heaped upon American citizens of this class in Russia. Russia should be taught that the badge of an American citizen is a shield to be respected in every civilized country in the world, and that the claim that they are Jewish citizens does not in the slightest degree affect their standing in the eyes of the American constitution. They are entitled to full protection, and it is the duty of our government to accord them that protection without further delay. The meetings of Jews held in various parts of this country to demand the protection abroad that is given to other citizens should be unnecessary. The government should do its duty and do it at once in a manner that will settle this Russian-Jewish-American question for all time.

NEW FIRE BOX NEEDED

There is need of a new fire box in the vicinity of the Rogers Hall school. Where so many young ladies are housed nightly there should be a box nearer the building than Porter street or Nesmith. Young women or old for that matter do not like the idea of rushing out at the dead of night as they might have to do in case of fire to run to a fire alarm box a considerable distance away. That district is growing and a box located there would accommodate a thickly settled territory that is not sufficiently protected by the other alarm boxes.

We do not intimate in the remotest degree that there is danger of fire at the Rogers Hall school, but the neighbors in that locality feel the need of a fire alarm box, although their buildings are not nearly so valuable as the school building. Besides the Rogers Hall school is putting up a fine gymnasium that will add to the value of the buildings to be protected.

NOW THE SIFTING PROCESS

It seems that a great many people are still at sea, so to speak, in regard to how they will vote at the coming primaries. Unless the voters take up the ballot and study it carefully they will undoubtedly cast a great many blanks through error. In spite of all explanations a great many people are of the opinion that they can vote for eight aldermen and ten school committeemen. There is no provision in the new charter for voting for more officials than are to be elected. We have to elect a mayor and four aldermen or commissioners. Therefore, any citizen who votes for more than one candidate for mayor or more than four candidates for aldermen will spoil his ballot. The same rule holds good in regard to the school board. Only five candidates can be voted for. It is to be hoped that there will be no mistakes made on these matters that would cause the ballots to be thrown out.

The greatest trouble, however, will be to make a wise selection from the long list of candidates. That list is printed in the paper and every voter can take it up and study it so that when the primaries come he will have his mind made up as to whom he will vote for. There are a great many candidates who should be dismissed without any consideration, and this is where the voter will have to exercise good judgment. If he votes only for the people who get around to ask him for his vote or who buttonhole him on the street corners, he certainly will not help elect the best men. There are certain candidates for all the offices who will not ask anybody for votes. Neither will they do any advertising. Yet some of these are among the best candidates on the ticket. They were induced to enter the fight through the persuasion of their friends, and they have simply consented to run and will not make any effort to influence the voters in their behalf.

The citizens can facilitate themselves that in this election there is a sufficiently long list to select from. If the men nominated prove not to be of the right stamp, the fault will lie with the voters alone. There are good men up for all the offices, but it remains to be seen whether the people want such men or whether they prefer men of second or third rate ability. It is necessary that a man running for a municipal office at a salary of $2500 per year should have some capability, some business experience; that he be trustworthy in his dealings, and that he can be relied upon to protect and promote the best interests of the city so far as lies in his power. That is the kind of men we want, and it rests with the voters to decide whether they will select this stamp of citizen for the offices to be filled. Whatever the character of the men nominated may be it will reflect the popular sentiment in regard to the kind of officials they want at city hall.

SEEN AND HEARD

Alexander M. Dockery, former governor of Missouri, was at one time a member of the house of representatives, and while filling the job, made the acquaintance of a needy young man who formed the habit of borrowing too much money. Dockery got tired of being "touched" every few days and decided to put a stop to it.

One day he was called out of the house chamber by the borrowing friend.

"Say, Dockery," came the usual request, "can you lend me 20?"

Dockery looked at the man and cast down, and felt in all of his pockets and nearly succeeded in squeezing out a tear from his left eye.

"I haven't got a cent," he said in a sepulchral tone.

At that moment he spied a page boy coming down the corridor—a boy who, he knew, was always hard up. The legislator saw a way of making an effective escape.

"I don't even know where I could borrow the money for you, Ben," he concluded. Turning quickly, he called the page.

"Ray, my boy," he said kindly, "have you $20 with you?"

The boy put his hand into a pocket. Dockery took a few steps toward the door, the would-be borrower began to moun.

"Yes, sir," said the lad. "Here it is."

In the scramble that followed a promiscuous discharge of dynamite in a building lot a stout man lost a scarf-pin. After he began to search for it he noticed another man poking around in the dust and debris. He immediately grew suspicious, and at last he spoke.

"I do not wish to give offense," he said, "but I must ask you to refrain from assisting me in this search. I appreciate your willingness to assist, but as a means of self-protection I long ago made it a rule never to allow strangers to assist me in a search for a lost article."

"Oh, very well," said the stranger. "You have no objection to my looking on, I suppose?"

He sat down on the curbstone, and watched the stout man sift dust and overturn stone. After twenty minutes of painful sifting the stout man found a scarf-pin.

"That is not my pin," he said, dejectedly.

"No, it's mine," said the other man. "I heard it strike somewhere hereabout. That was what I set out to look for, but when I saw how anxious you were for the job I let you go ahead. Your own scarf-pin. If you want to know, it is sticking to the flap of your left coat pocket."

NEVER PROVE FALSE TO A FRIEND

Never prove false to a friend. In love and in friendship be true. Never prove false to a friend. So long as he's faithful to you. He may be dishonest, a knave. In others' opinions; but then to you he is generous and kind. And one of the noblest of men.

Is any man free from each fault. All righteous and good in his ways? Lives there a worm on earth. That he can be named but in praise? Never speak ill of a friend. To gossipers keep closed your ear. An excellent rule in the main. Is to credit one-tenth what you hear.

Stand by a man in distress. When you know he is really in need. What matter if even he fails? There is honor for you in the deed. That one may deceive you, 'tis true. Then his and not yours the disgrace? Because we find one man untrue. Shall we wrong or distrust the whole race?

Censure a man for his faults; Give him honor when honor is due. But never prove false to a friend. So long as he's faithful to you. Never prove false to a friend. In love and in friendship prove true; Never prove false to a friend. So long as he's faithful to you. —From an old Scotchbook.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness and the sympathy shown to us in our recent bereavement; also for the beautiful floral tributes.

MAN RESCUED AT FIRE

Taken Down Ladder After Being Overcome by Smoke

LYNN, Nov. 20.—While the three-story wooden lodging house at 63-69 Summer street was in flames early yesterday morning firemen Henry Haddock and Miner Ballard of Ladder 3 made a spectacular rescue of Robert Galloupe, a lodger, who had been overcome by smoke at a window on the third floor of the structure.

He was the only one of the 20 occupants of rooms whom the firemen were obliged to carry from the building, but several others, including the owner, Mrs. Frank Kimball, were assisted from the hallway on the second floor, where they were found by firemen and policemen. Several declared that they had to dash through flames to leave their rooms, but none suffered any injury.

The fire threatened to communicate to adjoining buildings, and it required the hardest work by three engine companies to keep the flames confined to the lodging house. The damage was estimated at $5000.

Find Their Doors Burning. Just after 4 o'clock Thomas Eagan, employed as a night watchman at Mr. Mathew hall, discovered the rear of the lodging house in flames. He threw a rock through a window in the room of David Healey, just as Walter Dean, a lodger on the second floor, was aroused by the intense heat. Dean and Charles Berry, who roomed across the hall, found the doors of their rooms burning when they started to go out into the hallway, but both escaped without suffering injury. Both men ran through the flames, awakening the other lodgers, and Dean made his way to the third floor, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, elderly persons, were asleep. He assisted them to the street, and only in their nightclothes.

Returned For Her Husband

William Adams, another lodger, sent in an alarm from box 524, and when companies from the Broad street station reached the house the flames had spread to the roof. While engine lines were pouring water into the building, Lieut. Martin of Squad A entered the lodging house, and in a dark hall he found Mrs. Kimball, partly overcome by smoke. She had left the house, but had returned to search for her husband, Lieut. Martin assisted her to the street.

Lieut. Martin and other firemen then went through the rooms on the second floor, but found that everyone had departed. The smoke was so thick and the flames spread so rapidly that the firemen were forced to leave.

Galloupe Calls for Help. While the blaze was at its height, Galloupe appeared at a third story window and shouted for assistance. Members of Ladder 3 quickly raised a long ladder and firemen Haddock and Ballard entered the house and found Galloupe overcome. He was taken to the street over the ladder. The cold air quickly revived him.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

Declares in Favor of the Arbitration Treaties

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—"I sincerely hope that the new arbitration treaties negotiated by our national government with Great Britain and France will be ratified by the senate," said Cardinal Gibbons to a reporter. "They should receive the support of the whole country. It is of the utmost importance that civilized nations should bind themselves in advance to submit to arbitration all international questions which can be settled by the application of principles of law and equity, and I can see no reason why there should not be appointed joint commissions to investigate international controversies and determine whether particular questions of such a character, so that each nation will be in honor bound to submit those issues to international arbitration rather than to resort to war. That idea represents the best spirit of the age. It has behind it the endorsement of the Christian world."

"Among the many advantages of international arbitration," continued the cardinal, "it seems to me to be a very serviceable breakwater against war, because its deliberate and orderly procedure gives a nation's blood time to cool. Formerly it was only necessary to slap the face of a foreign minister and that was considered a sufficient cause belli. Think of a condition in which a personal affront like that was regarded as a justification for the slaughter of multitudes!"

Age of Duelling Gone. "Duels between individuals were once frequent in this country. Even in the United States senate and house of representatives an insult would be followed by an armed combat. The nation, however, has grown wiser and better, and the duel has been relegated to the museum of extinct social monstrosities. I do not see why the same influence that led to the suppression of duels between individuals should not produce a like result in the affairs of nations which are simply aggregations of individuals. General international arbitration treaties seem to me to be the surest and quickest means through which the universal peace may be effected, or at least approached."

"When we consider the evils of war our eyes are directed almost exclusively to the combatants themselves. We have no thoughts for the non-combatants. The truth is that the most frightful sufferings of war are borne by the wives and children of those who fight in the field. The bitter agony of their waiting and anxiety is far worse than the mere physical hardships and sufferings of the armed men. A wound to the loved one in battle strikes more cruelly those who have to wait at home. Physical suffering usually dissipates the fear of death. Men can suffer and die bravely in the excitement of war, but harder, much harder, to bear is the mental agony of those who must wait, without power to help their dear ones in danger."

Financial Aspects. "The financial side of war, too, has its strong aspect. It is proper that the world at large should have something to say about quarrels between particular nations. The commerce of nations is now so involved and related that war between two nations is an interference with all nations. For instance, I have $20,000 invested in German securities. Germany goes to war, and I must suffer, although I am an American citizen. International efforts to prevent war rest upon equitable as well as humanitarian rights. The result of war is not only a loss of life, but also a partial paralysis of trade."

"I am in favor of the general arbitration treaty principle and I endorse the idea of the new treaties with Great Britain and France because I believe that questions which might otherwise result in war should be first taken away from the influence of party politics and considered seriously in the calm, neutral air of some impartial tribunal whose findings must at least morally bind the contending nations to submit to international arbitration all questions which may be found amenable according to principles of law or equity."

GOOD MONEY AFTER BAD. It is a curious fact that many men level headed enough about other things seem to lose their wits entirely when they become involved in lawsuits. In one case recently concluded in the German courts, Berlin merchants paid out over $900 to recover the value of a five cent postage stamp. He had written a letter asking for an address and inclosing postage for reply. Failing to get an answer, he sued for the stamp.

The famous Missouri watermelon case was just as trifling and even more disastrous. The seed was planted on an oat farm, but the vine crept through a crack in the rail fence, and the melon grew on the other side. Both farmers claimed it, and instead of perceiving the humor of the situation they went to law. To add to the puzzling features of the question of

RELIABILITY

SCRATCHING IS DANGEROUS

People afflicted with eczema and other skin troubles try to get relief by scratching, which not only aggravates the trouble, but also increases the risk of infection. Apply a little Cadum, and the itching will stop. Cadum is soothing and healing to an inflamed, irritated or diseased skin. It is antiseptic, and when applied to a scratch, sore or wound, prevents infection from disease germs. It acts quickly upon eczema, pimples, sores, ulcers, rash, rough skin, scalds, chaffings, itching piles, etc. Of druggists, 10c and 25c per box.

Age of Duelling Gone

Duels between individuals were once frequent in this country. Even in the United States senate and house of representatives an insult would be followed by an armed combat. The nation, however, has grown wiser and better, and the duel has been relegated to the museum of extinct social monstrosities. I do not see why the same influence that led to the suppression of duels between individuals should not produce a like result in the affairs of nations which are simply aggregations of individuals. General international arbitration treaties seem to me to be the surest and quickest means through which the universal peace may be effected, or at least approached."

"When we consider the evils of war our eyes are directed almost exclusively to the combatants themselves. We have no thoughts for the non-combatants. The truth is that the most frightful sufferings of war are borne by the wives and children of those who fight in the field. The bitter agony of their waiting and anxiety is far worse than the mere physical hardships and sufferings of the armed men. A wound to the loved one in battle strikes more cruelly those who have to wait at home. Physical suffering usually dissipates the fear of death. Men can suffer and die bravely in the excitement of war, but harder, much harder, to bear is the mental agony of those who must wait, without power to help their dear ones in danger."

Financial Aspects

"The financial side of war, too, has its strong aspect. It is proper that the world at large should have something to say about quarrels between particular nations. The commerce of nations is now so involved and related that war between two nations is an interference with all nations. For instance, I have $20,000 invested in German securities. Germany goes to war, and I must suffer, although I am an American citizen. International efforts to prevent war rest upon equitable as well as humanitarian rights. The result of war is not only a loss of life, but also a partial paralysis of trade."

"I am in favor of the general arbitration treaty principle and I endorse the idea of the new treaties with Great Britain and France because I believe that questions which might otherwise result in war should be first taken away from the influence of party politics and considered seriously in the calm, neutral air of some impartial tribunal whose findings must at least morally bind the contending nations to submit to international arbitration all questions which may be found amenable according to principles of law or equity."

GOOD MONEY AFTER BAD

It is a curious fact that many men level headed enough about other things seem to lose their wits entirely when they become involved in lawsuits. In one case recently concluded in the German courts, Berlin merchants paid out over $900 to recover the value of a five cent postage stamp. He had written a letter asking for an address and inclosing postage for reply. Failing to get an answer, he sued for the stamp.

The famous Missouri watermelon case was just as trifling and even more disastrous. The seed was planted on an oat farm, but the vine crept through a crack in the rail fence, and the melon grew on the other side. Both farmers claimed it, and instead of perceiving the humor of the situation they went to law. To add to the puzzling features of the question of

TWO POLICE RAIDS

Gathered in Couple That Were Sentenced to Jail

The police made two successful raids early yesterday morning and succeeded in arresting three couples, two being taken from the lodging house at 32 Bridge street, conducted by Mrs. Minnie Pollard, while the third couple was arrested in the room in the Spaulding block at the junction of Central and Prescott streets.

The police have received many complaints of disorderly conduct in downtown buildings of late and Supt. Welch is determined to rid Lowell of this nuisance.

Early yesterday morning a squad of police, composed of Sergt. Alexander Duncanson, Inspectors Frank Fox and Wm. H. Grady and Patrolman J. A. Clark, called at the boarding house at 32 Bridge street and arrested James Powers and Mary Douglas and George Merritt and Sarah A. Armstrong. They were taken to the police station and booked for illegal cohabitation. In police court this morning each entered a plea of guilty to the complaint. Powers and the Douglas woman were each sentenced to six months in jail and Merritt and the Armstrong woman were each sentenced to six months in the house of correction at Cambridge. Immediately after the quartet had been removed from the house by the police, Mrs. Pollard drank a large quantity of salts of lemon and became violently ill. Later in the morning the ambulance was summoned and she was removed to St. John's hospital, where she received treatment.

Another Couple Arrested

Patrolmen Petrie, Drowett, Clancy and Creamer visited the Spaulding block in Central street and in one of the rooms found Mary A. Bourke and Chas. A. Bugbee. The pair was sent to the police station where the man was booked for adultery and the woman was booked for fornication. The pair appeared in police court this morning and after being found guilty the man was sentenced to six months in jail, while the woman was given a sentence of three months in the same place.

Passed Worthless Checks

Charles M. Fowler, who was formerly employed by a local rug concern, was arrested in Boston yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police charging him with two complaints of larceny. He was brought back to this city by Court Officer Peter Cawley.

Fowler was arraigned in court this morning on complaints charging him with the larceny of $4.50 in money from George S. Gilman and the larceny of $6.50 in money from Mrs. Mary McDermott. He pleaded guilty to each complaint, but asked that the case be continued until tomorrow in order that he might confer with counsel. The request was granted, the defendant being held under $500 bonds for his appearance tomorrow morning.

It is alleged that Fowler passed worthless checks on the two complainants.

Dunken Offenders

Fred M. Millings and Daniel J. Donahue, charged with being drunk, were found guilty and each sentenced to five months in the house of correction at Cambridge.

John J. Kelley will spend the next three months in jail.

Three couples, Louis Perrault, William Varley, John A. Baslaw, Maria Richardson, Gilbert Turcotte and John C. Driscoll were fined $6 each.

There was but one first offender. Twelve simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

"JACK" KEATING

Former Lowell Telegrapher Did Great Stunt

A notable feat in telegraphy was performed in the Boston office of The Associated Press last Saturday afternoon, when the two big football games at Cambridge and New Haven were sent out completely play by play, over a single wire.

The report of the two great games, between Harvard and Dartmouth, and Yale and Princeton, came into the Boston office over two special wires from Soldiers' field and Yale field, respectively, the running story of both contests making a total of about 5000 words. This matter was transmitted by Operator John J. Keating, from the Boston office on the single wire. In less than two hours the required feat of the playing of each game, finishing the story of each period within a few minutes after the actual play of both games.

This feat was the more remarkable considering that the transmission in dots and dashes went over a thousand miles of wire heavy on the rain, and through six sets of repeaters. These repeaters automatically relayed the words simultaneously to a score of newspapers served by The Associated Press in as many different cities, sections of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The Sun's operator, Mr. Joseph O'Connor, copied this matter without error, and The Sun with this and other sporting results and news of the day was on the street three minutes after the finish of the later game at New Haven.

Mr. Keating was formerly A. P. operator for The Sun and has many friends in this city.

JUDGE HADLEY

HAS A PENCIL MADE AT THOREAU WORKS FIFTY YEARS AGO

Judge Samuel P. Hadley, of the police court, has a very rare souvenir which was recently presented to him and which he prizes very highly. It is a pencil made at the works of John Thoreau at Concord, Mass., during the early part of the 19th century, and which is about 75 years old.

Judge Hadley feels that Henry Thoreau, son of the great pencil maker, who was one of the noted American authors, may have made the pencil which he now possesses, for Henry when young, worked for his father.

Mr. Thoreau, in his life of Thoreau, the father of Henry, says: "Pencil making, the art by which he earned his modest livelihood during Henry's youth, was introduced into Concord about 1812 by William Munroe, whose son has richly endowed the free library from which Henry drew books, and to which he gave some of his own. In this handicraft, which was at times quite profitable, the younger Thoreau assisted his father from time to time, and Henry acquired it, even to the extent, says Mr. Emerson, of making as good a pencil as the best English ones."

CATHOLIC NEWS

Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. L., preached the sermon at the high mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. L.

On one of the evenings of the affair, the minstrel show, which was so successfully presented by the Holy Name society, will be repeated by request. Rehearsals are being held under the direction of Henry Curry, and a great performance is assured.

Immaculate Conception. A memorial service for the deceased members of the senior and junior branches of the Holy Name society of the Immaculate Conception church was held last night at 8 o'clock. The members of the society in a body occupied seats in the main aisle of the church, and they were addressed by Rev. John P. Flynn, O. M. L., of the Sacred Heart church, who delivered an eloquent sermon on the name of the society. After the sermon "Do Profundis" was sung, and this was followed by the benediction of the blessed sacrament, the pastor, Rev. Fr. Tighe, O. M. L., officiating.

St. Peter's Church. At St. Peter's church yesterday, Rev. Daniel J. Heffernan celebrated high mass, and the sermon, a thoughtful discourse on the gospel of the day was preached by Rev. Fr. George Mullin. A feature of the musical program was the rendition of a beautiful "Ave Maria" by Miss May E. Whiteley and Mr. James E. Donnelly.

The work of raising the old wooden church in Gorham street is progressing finely and in a short time the lot will be vacant. It is expected that in the spring the construction of the proposed parish school will be commenced.

Fr. Watelle III. Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. L., pastor of St. Joseph's parish, is confined to St. John's hospital, where he was removed last night. The Rev. Father's illness, although of no serious nature, will require an operation, and this will probably be performed tomorrow.

Notre Dame de Lourdes. The celebrant at the parish mass at Notre-Dame de Lourdes church yesterday, was Rev. Herve Racette, O. M. L., D. D., of Tewksbury, and the sermon was delivered by Rev. Fr. Laganier, O. M. L., who spoke of the gospel of the day.

The announcements were made by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Lamothe, O. M. L., and among other news of interest, he said that two religious societies had been organized in the parish, namely: The Children of Mary society, and the Sacred Heart cadets. Over 100 members were enrolled in the former, and the rules and regulations are the same as in all other parishes. The monthly communion of this sodality will be held on the first Friday of the month. The Sacred Heart cadets is a branch of the Sacred Heart league and guard, and is composed of school boys, the latter when old enough will join the league and guard.

The preacher at vespers which was held at 6:30 o'clock, was Mgr. Grouard, O. M. L., vicar apostolic of Athabaska-MacKenzie, who spoke on the missions of his far north diocese.

The choir of this church under the direction of Mr. Alphonse A. Racicot is rehearsing Gounod's mass of the Sacred Heart for Christmas.

STABBED CHUM. 8 YEAR OLD GIRL STABBED LITTLE BOY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—With a cry of "Ha, now I've got you!" Ruby Fleishman, an eight-year-old girl, stabbed David Goldschneider, 11 years old, after a quarrel resulting from a game of marbles and the throwing of rocks at each other. The knife, of pocket variety, penetrated the back of the boy and he was removed to the Pennsylvania hospital in an ambulance after the cries of his playmates had attracted the attention of the older folk of Christian street.

His condition is considered critical and the wound may prove fatal.

Immediately after the stabbing Ruby ran into the yard in the rear of 217 Christian street and hid in a barn until Officer Cohen of the West End station appeared and led her to the station house.

Lowell people who have relatives or friends at the Bloomingdale hospital at Worcester and desire to visit them may do so, as the management has announced that the institution will be open to visitors between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Thanksgiving Day.

LOST IN RIVER

Girl Drowned While Exploring Tunnel

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—Miss Lucille Cook, a Washington University student, was drowned Saturday when a boat containing five young women members of the school's geology class overturned in a natural tunnel leading to an underground river near Leasburg, Mo. The four other girls were rescued by Richard D. Sparks, assistant professor of geology, who was directing the boat.

Another boat containing five young women students, in charge of Prof. Walter E. V. Court, already had passed through the tunnel when the party heard the cries for help. They returned, but not in time to rescue Miss Cook. Miss Cook was 18 years old, had been graduated last year from Central high school. The place where she drowned was a narrow, natural tunnel, about one-eighth of a mile long, leading from the Meramec river to the Onondaga cave, one of the most famous underground caverns in Missouri. The guide permitted the boat to draw so close to a side of the cavern that the girls became frightened. Miss Cook reached out to push the boat toward the middle of the stream and fell overboard. With the others shifting their positions rapidly the boat was capsized in an instant. The five young women were thrown into the water, five feet deep.

In the darkness the torches having been extinguished when the skiff overturned, difficulty was experienced in rescuing the girls. Mr. Sparks called for help and, seizing the girls one at a time, carried them to a landing. When the other boat returned, he had rescued four. Miss Cook's dress was seen floating on the surface and Mr. Sparks again plunged into the stream and brought her to the boat, which by this time had been righted. Efforts to revive her were futile.

KILLED IN CHURCH

Feudists Opened Fire on Foe

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 20.—Murray Snell was shot and killed and his son Bill is expected to die at any moment, as the result of the gun fire of an opposition feud faction, headed by W. R. Dowden, which began hostilities last night in the church at Orangeville, Vernon parish, during the service. Revival services closed not many weeks ago and attendance yet is far above normal.

There had been much fervent praying and a hymn was being sung when Dowden and his followers entered the church. They entered calmly and peacefully, but when they saw the Snells, who were sitting in front of the aisle, turned to see who it was. Every one in the church knew of the feud, but thought the church would ground, and no one suspected for cover until Dowden made a quick motion toward his left shoulder.

Shooting seemed simultaneous with this gesture and when the smoke cleared away the Snells were gasping on the floor. W. R. and George Dowden and Bill Snell were among the victims and the congregation was outside or hidden under the benches. The Dowdens and Snells are in jail.

Finney of the College of the City of New York will be the principal speaker at the morning session, and he will be followed by Dr. Charles Zuehlke. In the afternoon other noted speakers will be heard, including President John M. Finney of Middlebury college and C. A. Fessenden, deputy commissioner of education in Boston. The business session will be held, with reports by committees. Supt. Arthur K. Whitcomb of Lowell will speak on "Neurology."

$600,000 IN GIFTS

Stolen From a Train in France

PARIS, Nov. 20.—The Paris police are confronted with a most baffling problem in the robbery of three vans of the Indian mail, which is run in connection with the Peninsula express to Brindisi. The robbery was one of the most daring known in European police annals. It was perpetrated in the early hours of Saturday morning while the mail train was running at 60 miles an hour, between Paris and Lyons.

The thieves knew the van containing the mails for India and the far east were full of valuables bound for the Dardanelles and Christmas presents. It is estimated property worth $600,000 was taken.

The mail bags were probably thrown out through the ventilation trap and were picked up by confederates following the train in specially motor cars. There is no clue to the robbers.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

JUVENILE LOGIC.

"Do you belong to a brass band, Mrs. Blow?"

"Yes, dear. What put that idea into your head?"

"Well, mamma said you were always blowing your own horn, so I thought you must belong to a brass band."

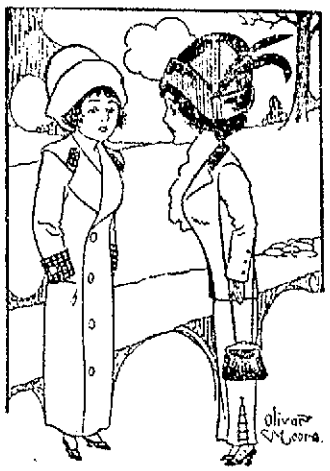

SHE KNEW.

"Big men are the better lovers."

"How do you figure that?"

"Why, they're so demonstrative in their love-making."

"Never judge a lover by his signs."

FEMININE AMENITIES.

"I am engaged to a struggling young lawyer."

"Dear me! Is he trying that hard to get away?"

NO DRONE.

"Did Percy ever really work?"

"He told me that he had moving pictures taken of himself, while brushing his own hat to prove it."

A HINT.

"You-or-er-ecem to have a pretty 'bad color'?"

"Yes, I'm so hoarse that if anyone should attempt to kiss me I shouldn't be able to scream."

FROM EXPERIENCE.

$50,000 CASE SETTLED

After Jury Had Been Empanelled For Trial

With three sessions of the superior court in progress at the same time there was business galore at the court house this morning.

The three sessions were: Without juries, Justice Fessenden. Divorce court (uncontested), Justice Irwin; his first appearance in Lowell.

The first session has been in progress for several weeks and was about to enter upon the hearing of the biggest case of the session from the standpoint of the amount but it was settled without trial after a consultation of counsel.

The divorce court started without delay and ground out a number of uncontested cases while the session presided over by Judge Fessenden was much slower in getting down to business by reason of many motions that required the court's attention during the morning session.

Tomorrow these three sessions and two sessions of the probate court will be held.

Big Case Settled

After a consultation behind closed doors for nearly three hours at the court house, Samuel J. Elder of Boston, dean of the Massachusetts bar, associated with Hon. John P. Kenney for the plaintiff and Messrs. Trull & Wier for the defendant, in the action of contract of Harriet Kannerling vs. Moulton administrator of the estate of Alice K. Hopkins, deceased, in the sum of $50,000.

The case which has been tried for nearly a year and a half, was made ready. At the opening of court it was called by Judge Morton and a jury empanelled.

Before proceeding further, however, Messrs. Trull & Wier for the defense asked the court's permission for a continuance of counsel relative to a settlement.

The four counsel then retired, Judge Morton lecturing a recess of 20 minutes but it was 11.45 when counsel returned, announcing a settlement, the amount of which was not named. The jury was then dismissed after which the session adjourned until tomorrow morning.

In this case the plaintiff, Harriet Kannerling, alleged that in 1862 while a resident of Maine, the deceased, Alice Hopkins, requested her to go to Boston and make her home with her and agreed to legally adopt the plaintiff and upon her death leave the plaintiff half her estate. The plaintiff claims she went to Boston, was legally adopted by the deceased and lived with her until the latter's death in 1909, but that Alice Hopkins did not leave her half of her estate as agreed, whereupon she brought suit for half the estate, or $50,000.

Clerk Roger Hurd, who has been officiating at this session of court, went to Judge Irwin's divorce session this morning and his place has been taken by Clerk John McKinnon.

Judge Fessenden's Court

Judge Fessenden and Clerk Putnam opened court for motions and contested divorce cases in the old superior court room. So large is the regular divorce list that it was decided to adjourn the contested divorce cases in Judge Fessenden's court until Judge Irwin finishes the uncontested cases.

Many motions were heard during the morning while cases were assigned on the divorce list.

The equity list will be taken up in its entirety on Wednesday morning. The case of Jan vs. Cawley, relative to the conveyance of property in Church street which was second on the court list was not suited at request of plaintiff. Messrs. Qua appeared for the plaintiff and John J. Devine for the defendant.

During the reading of the list in this court a case was called but which in some unaccountable manner had gotten upon the list again. When the name of the counsel for the defendant was called the lawyer who happened to be present arose and said: "Your Honor, I think that case will be passed. I am not sure but I think my client in that case is dead."

"Yes he's dead," remarked another lawyer. "I had a suit against him."

It was announced that the contempt proceedings in the contested divorce case of Rundstrom vs. Rundstrom would be called tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MATE HARRINGTON

Tells of Experience on Schooner Willis

WESTBROOK, Conn., Nov. 20.—Out of the delirium in which they have been since their rescue from the wreck of the schooner Henry B. Willis yesterday, Captain Otto Pauer and his mate, Cornelius Harrington, emerged this forenoon and with clear wits told the story of the harrowing experiences in the schooner during Sunday night while the vessel drifted on a rocky lee shore. Captain Pauer did not know of the loss of his wife, Harriet, and their child, both of whom had been washed overboard by the captain and mate that the terrible seas might not wash them overboard. In the bitter winds and tumbling water both died from exposure. Mate Harrington, who is 58 years old and has followed the sea all his life, says he never had closer call from death. He said the schooner was trying to beat up the sound under the southwest blow but was unable to do better than make the Connecticut shore and anchor under Duck Island breakwater. At the time there were seven schooners and two tugs under the breakwater. Mate Harrington says that as soon as the vessel went adrift the captain and himself began to burn torches as signals of distress. No help came, although Harrington says he believes the tugs could have given assistance if they had wanted to. The rocks of the Point were only a half mile distant and very soon the vessel was pounding upon them.

SPENCER BROKE DOWN DURING THE TAKING OF TESTIMONY TODAY

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 20.—A report that a mysterious witness summoned from California to testify before the defense would take the stand today in the trial of Bertram Spencer, the alleged murderer of Miss Blackstone, drew an immense crowd to the Hampden county courthouse long before the doors to the courtroom were opened today. Attorneys for Spencer announced yesterday that the unnamed Californian would testify today. Spencer spent two years of his life in California.

Only a small part of the crowd which thronged to the courthouse was able to gain admission to the room where Spencer is on trial but the remainder of the throng lingered about the entrance of the building and seemed satisfied to get a glimpse of the prisoner as he stepped from the carriage in which he was driven from the jail and walked across the sidewalk to the courthouse steps. He was escorted by Sheriff Wade of the Hampden county jail. As usual Sheriff Embury P. Clark accompanied the prisoner and the prisoner from the jail to the courthouse. It was thought that the Californian witness would take the stand early in the session, and three witnesses followed in the day by three alternates retained by the defense to support the theory that Spencer is insane at the present time and was insane at the time of the Blackstone murder.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Reported to be Much Improved Today

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Dr. DeLaney, the White House physician, after a visit to President Taft this morning, announced that there had been a decided improvement in Mr. Taft's condition.

"He is very much better," said Dr. DeLaney. "It is not anything but a cold," said another White House official. "He is in no danger and has shown marked improvement."

Although he is to be confined to the house for a few days, if doctors' orders are obeyed, the president will not lose that time. He intends to work in his library on his message to congress and other important matters and will receive cabinet officers and other officials there.

Secretary Hilges, who is also suffering from a cold, was declared today no danger, but may not appear at the executive offices until his chief does.

ACCUSED MAN WEPT HEAVY REGISTRATION

Spencer Broke Down During the Names of 2712 Women Were Added to the Lists Last Week

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 20.—A report that a mysterious witness summoned from California to testify before the defense would take the stand today in the trial of Bertram Spencer, the alleged murderer of Miss Blackstone, drew an immense crowd to the Hampden county courthouse long before the doors to the courtroom were opened today. Attorneys for Spencer announced yesterday that the unnamed Californian would testify today. Spencer spent two years of his life in California.

Only a small part of the crowd which thronged to the courthouse was able to gain admission to the room where Spencer is on trial but the remainder of the throng lingered about the entrance of the building and seemed satisfied to get a glimpse of the prisoner as he stepped from the carriage in which he was driven from the jail and walked across the sidewalk to the courthouse steps. He was escorted by Sheriff Wade of the Hampden county jail. As usual Sheriff Embury P. Clark accompanied the prisoner and the prisoner from the jail to the courthouse. It was thought that the Californian witness would take the stand early in the session, and three witnesses followed in the day by three alternates retained by the defense to support the theory that Spencer is insane at the present time and was insane at the time of the Blackstone murder.

SPENCER WEPT VIOLENTLY

Spencer began to weep violently and his wife endeavored in vain to quiet him. Spencer wrote that his life had been a hard one. He quoted the scriptural adage that "the way of the transgressor is hard" and said he had been beset by many snares and pitfalls. He would have succeeded better, he wrote, had it not been for his father's criminal element of him.

The prisoner also wrote that if he had told anyone 19 years ago of his evil propensities he would have been put away and all of his trouble and disgrace would have been prevented. He could hardly believe, he wrote, that he had been robbing and stealing all his life and that he had shot and killed a poor, defenseless woman, whom, under ordinary circumstances, he would have laid down his own life to protect. He said that he supposed that when the woman screamed he was impelled to shoot. The letter closed with his expression of the hope that God would be merciful to his relatives.

Dr. Lamont Testifies

Dr. Henry Lamont, the Seattle physician, then took the stand. Dr. Lamont testified that he had been a surgeon with Roosevelt's army during the Spanish American war and that he was also a retired surgeon of the American navy. Once when he was stationed at Newport, R. I., Spencer, then in the naval service, was placed under his observation because the boy had been acting strangely. He said that he had been struck by the cause of objection on the part of the district attorney Dr. Lamont was not permitted to express an opinion as to Spencer's sanity, although he was allowed to relate strange actions of the defendant while at Newport. Dr. Lamont was on the stand when the noon recess was taken.

Another Deposition

Another deposition was from Mrs. Anita A. Markham of Oakland, Cal. Mrs. Markham is the wife of a cousin of Spencer and it was at her home that Spencer lived during his stay in Oakland in 1904-05. The deposition said that Spencer would not quarrel about once every two weeks. Sometimes he was melancholy and would cry by the hour. Frequently he would curse and swear and pace the floor. He told Mrs. Markham that his father had hurt his head in pushing him when he was a child and his head had caused him trouble ever since. Spencer often left the house in the evening and would remain away until early the next morning. The deposition said that during his frenzied spells an artery or vein under Spencer's right ear would pulsate violently. During his outbursts the deposition said, Spencer was a raving fool. At other times he behaved in a proper manner.

Appended to the deposition was a letter which Spencer had written to Mrs. Markham since his arrest for the murder of Miss Blackstone. In the letter, which was addressed to "Dear Cousin Anita," Spencer expressed his appreciation and thanks for Mrs. Markham's letters of comfort. He wrote affectionately of his mother, wife and baby. As the reading of the letter reached this point the prisoner began to weep silently.

ANOTHER BIG DAY

More Women Registered This Afternoon

For the fair sex all roads lead to the city hall. Never before in the history of the city, said an old timer this afternoon, have the women shown such great interest in any one question or movement as is being displayed by them at the present time. The situation is so unusual that everybody is talking, wondering and conjecturing. One man said this afternoon that the preliminary election would take two days.

The registrars expected a goodly number of women callers this afternoon but their expectations didn't reach up to keen line with events. Up to four o'clock this afternoon, and registration was begun at 1 o'clock, more than 400 women had registered and almost as many more were in line, awaiting their turn. The registrars are beginning to wonder where the women are all coming from and they wonder what the grand total will be.

The registrars take exception to a statement to the effect that 100 women were waiting to be registered when they closed their office on Saturday night. "That statement is absolutely false," said Omar Albord, chairman of the board of registrars. "One woman put in appearance after we closed and we opened the office and allowed her to register, so you can see how absolutely untrue was the statement that 100 women were turned away."

A CHIMNEY FIRE

At 7.30 o'clock this morning a telephone alarm summoned a portion of the fire department to the Bridget Fox estate in Lakeview avenue for a slight chimney fire. There was no damage.

THERE ARE FOUR CANDIDATES FOR MAYOR, 91 FOR ALDERMEN, AND 35 FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD, WHOSE NAMES WILL APPEAR ON THE OFFICIAL BALLOT. THE LIST OF CANDIDATES IS PUBLISHED ON PAGE 5.

The total registration for last week was 2958, 2712 women and 246 men. Five times as many women registered last week as were on the check list previous to that time and the registrars expect that the women will keep them busy today, tomorrow and Wednesday from 1 p. m. to 9 p. m. These are extra sessions agreed upon by the registrars in order to satisfy the demand for opportunity to register. The number of women to register last week was far in excess of any guess made by the registrars or others especially interested. Registration for the week, by wards, was as follows:

Wards	Nov. 15	Nov. 16	Nov. 17	Nov. 18
1	12	25	86	155
2	9	27	75	176
3	10	19	59	140
4	13	19	66	125
5	3	6	23	74
6	1	8	17	56
7	1	14	26	134
8	11	21	39	62
Totals	38	84	267	639

The total number of men registering was 246 and the ward totals for the week were as follows: Ward one, 31; ward two, 19; ward three, 52; ward four, 29; ward five, 21; ward six, 23; ward seven, 35; ward eight, 20; ward nine, 36.

Now, in order to determine the number of ballots that will be required at each precinct, it will be necessary for the registrars to get the feasible vote by precincts. It was taken only by wards and to get at it by precincts means a heap more work for the registrars.

WARDS UNNECESSARY

"I cannot see," said a city official, "why it is necessary to mention wards in connection with an election under the new charter. Ward lines as well as party lines have been eliminated, but I understand that the law requires that the returns shall be made by wards and precincts. I think it would simplify matters to eliminate any of the ward college."

RELIEVED OF DUTIES

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 20.—Rear Admiral Rodgers, commander of the Narragansett bay station and president of the naval war college was today relieved of his duties. Captain Albert Cleaves today became commander of the naval station and Captain William Rogers assumed the presidency of the war college.

FOR ALDERMAN

Edward Cawley

Edward Cawley as candidate for alderman should appeal to all the people as a successful business man. He served one year in the legislature, two in the city council, and two as superintendent of streets. For the last 26 years he has been in the coal business on Rogers street and his reputation for honesty, integrity and honor should commend him to the confidence of all voters. Having made a success of every business in which he has engaged, he is the stamp of man needed in the municipal board to help in the work of giving our city a good, clean, efficient and progressive administration of affairs. It is, therefore, with confidence that I appeal to the citizens in general to make him one of the nominees for the municipal board.

As proof of the esteem in which he is held by prominent citizens, I give below the list of endorsers who signed his nomination paper.

TEN LIVES LOST

Two Barges Crushed in a Mile-a-Minute Gale Off Block Island

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Nov. 20.—A mile-a-minute gale that thrashed the waters in the vicinity of Block Island into boiling seas Saturday and yesterday crushed two barges of the Scully Transportation company of New York into smithereens and it is almost certain, carried to watery graves six or eight persons.

The barges which succumbed to the wild onslaught of the storm after being torn from the tugs which were towing them were the three masted schooner barge Helen A. Wyman, formerly the William J. Retch, which carried, it is believed, a crew of three men beside Capt. Robert Lund, and the smaller barge Vermont, which carried a master and one hand.

The list of probable victims is augmented by the fact that the masters are believed to have had their wives aboard with them. Still another victim was indicated when a child's stocking was found clinging to the wreckage, which washed ashore from the Vermont.

The western coast of Block Island was strewn with so much wreckage up to last night that Capt. Herbert M. Knowles, superintendent of the Narragansett lifesaving district, expressed the hope that three instead of two barges had gone down.

Although no word has come from the missing crews and others who may have been aboard the wrecked barges, it is believed by mariners here that there can be little doubt as to their fate.

No boat, such as the barges are equipped with, could have lived in the seas which proved too great for the barges themselves, in the opinion of Block Island's sea-wise natives. A patrol in search of bodies or further identifying wreckage was maintained by the lifesavers during the night.

Laden with coal, the Helen A. Wyman was bound for Boston from a southern port with the barge Shenandoah, both being in tow of the tug John P. Scully of a New York company.

During the heavy gale in the early morning the barges were cast adrift. The Shenandoah was later picked up by the Scully and anchored just outside Newport harbor.

Heavy seas tossed the barge Wyman about and smashed it almost to pieces. Although the tug John P. Scully and Mary L. Scully, the latter bound west with three light barges in tow, made a search for the lost barge, no trace was found until long after daybreak, when the wreck was discovered nearly 12 miles southwest of here.

The Wyman was a total loss, the wreckage arriving too late to be of any assistance. A search was instituted for the crew, but none of the life-saving stations in the vicinity had any news concerning them.

The Helen A. Wyman was 218 feet in length, 42 feet beam, 24 feet depth of hold and had a gross tonnage of 1521. She was built at Bath, Me., in 1881, and was owned by the Scully Transportation company of New York.

A large amount of wreckage, including the top of a small salicy with the word Vermont painted in three inch black letters, which was driven ashore on the west end of the island today, announced the wreck of the barge of Vermont.

Near Sandy Point 26 pieces of wreckage came ashore, including a hatch cover and the top of a house 13 by 15 feet. Near the west end of the companionway was found a child's stocking.

Carved on a piece of wood which was picked up was the name H. Nieman. The Vermont registered 276 tons and sailed from Perth Amboy, N. J.,

The barge was lost from the line of tow of the tug Hokendauqua late yesterday and nothing had been heard about her until the wreckage came ashore. She carried a cargo of about 500 tons of coal.

STUDENTS IN A RIOT

Wildly Exciting Scene in Theatre at New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—A rigid inquiry will be made into the disturbance in the Hyperion Theatre Saturday night, when the police and Yale University authorities.

It was the worst student riot that has occurred in New Haven in many years. As a result the theatre is a wreck with several thousand dollars damage done; seven students were arrested, one with a wounded head, and a Brooklyn lawyer who tried to argue with an officer was kept in the police station until hailed out by Dean Frederick S. Jones of Yale.

Gaby Deslys herself was so unnerved after the riot, during which she had huddled in her dressing room, that she could only say, "It was a disgrace tonight, and I am so sorry. But last night it was very nice and everybody was very nice also."

Statements Greatly Differ

In the excitement which attended the election of students from the theatre by the police after the stage hands had turned a huge and drenched man in the audience; the band-to-hand conflict on the street outside, and the lively scenes at police headquarters, statements as to the origin of the trouble greatly differed.

The audience in the theatre had been happy and jubilant one until about 9:30 o'clock, the student body and Yale Alumni joining heartily in the singing of college songs which the chorus of Gaby Deslys' company had started.

"We Want Gaby"

It looked as if something would happen early in the week when Gaby Deslys was substituted for Writed Scheff, who had been booked and the price of seats raised to $2. The Yale News printed a demand that the theatre be boycotted and this cry arose in the theatre Saturday night when the curtain was rung down at 9:45 and the crowd was told the play had been cut by the police.

"We want Gaby," yelled the students, who had been orderly up to that time. There was no response and a student ran up on the stage. He was followed by others until there were 50 there trying to raise the asbestos curtain.

The chorus girls ran to their dressing rooms. The students smashed the footlights and began on the orchestra chairs. There were demands for the manager, but Mr. Eldridge kept out of sight. The stage hands defended the stage with crowbars and then turned a those on the students. The force of the water was such that several women in the audience had costly gowns drenched and ruined.

Boston Man Involved

Outside the students stoned the Hyperion sign. The police then arrested Louis E. Bomelsier of Brooklyn, brother of the famous Yale end, Norman H. Bomelsier, a substitute captain on the Yale team and son of a capitalist, tried to give Bomelsier his hat and was also arrested.

Bomelsier's scalp was broken by the clubbing.

James A. Huxley, a New York lawyer, went to the station to see if he couldn't do something for Bomelsier and was arrested for breach of the peace and resisting an officer. Dean Frederick S. Jones of Yale went bail for him, the charges later being dropped.

Charles H. Eldridge, manager of the Yale crew and Louis Conick, the latter in his pajamas; William J. Burns Jr., and John L. Dugert, all students, were arrested for breach of the peace. Dean Jones will stand back of them.

F. W. Eldridge, manager of the Hyperion Theatre, asked police protection to be escorted home. He claims Chief Cowles of the New Haven police demanded the show be shortened, but the chief says his demand was that there be nothing less.

DEAN JONES

STILL SAYS MEN ARRESTED DID NOT CAUSE TROUBLE

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 20.—The cases of Yale undergraduates arrested during the disturbance outside the Hyperion theatre Saturday night were not called in the city court today. It had been arranged that the hearings if held shall be on Saturday. Meantime an inquiry has been opened by both the police and college authorities and it promises to be a thorough one. Among college men the belief is held that the charges against the students will be pulled. They are demanding that the inquiry into the whole affair be without fear or favor. Repairs are being made in Hyperion theatre and the estimate of the damage has risen above $1000. Manager Eldridge is in at his home from the effects of the trouble. He was given, at his own request, police protection to his home on Saturday evening, although there was no evidence that any person had threatened him. Mr. Eldridge claims that his theatre was not given sufficient police protection and states that he has consulted counsel on the question of bringing suit against the city.

Dean Jones of the college in a statement today officially exonerates the students arrested from responsibility in the disturbance. He will investigate to ascertain who were the ringleaders in the riot and says it is an injustice to throw the brunt of the affair upon the men arrested. He says further that whatever action is taken by the college will not be against the men arrested, as he has evidence to show they were not responsible.

The Yale News, in reviewing the disturbance from the point of view of Yale men, deplores it and adds that "for once at least in the history of the world it seems as though the students of Yale have explanations and apologies coming to them. We are wondering if those involved will be men enough to present themselves voluntarily or if it will be necessary to drag them out by brute force of the best public opinion."

COURT GARIN, F. OF A.

Joins With Court Samuel de Champlain

Court Garin, F. of A., was recently annexed to Court Samuel de Champlain of the same order, and the latter court is now one of the largest in the city. It is not the largest. The change was made in order to reduce expenses and to increase more activity among the members of both courts. The organization will now be known as Court Samuel de Champlain, and its first meeting will be held tomorrow evening in Foresters hall, Middle street. The nomination of officers will be held on the first Tuesday in December, while the election will take place on the third Tuesday of the same month.

Court Garin was instituted on Dec. 17, 1900, and was named after the late Rev. Dr. Garin, O. M. L., and its charter members numbered 12. Its first chief ranger was Hon. Joseph H. Hibbard. The court at the time of its affiliation to Court Samuel de Champlain counted about 235 members and had the substantial sum of $3500 in its treasury, while the other court numbered 92 and its treasury was about $5000. Court Samuel de Champlain retains its name for the fact that its treasury was larger than the other court.

The chief ranger of Court Garin at the time of its affiliation was James St. Hilaire, while the present chief ranger of both courts is Joseph Lemire.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

Owing to numerous demands for tickets for Thanksgiving day, the Opera House management announces that tickets for the afternoon and evening performance of that date will be placed on sale Monday morning, Nov. 20th. The attraction for that date will be the thrilling western drama, "Billy the Kid," which has been booked for Wednesday and Thursday Nov. 29 and 30.

MAUDE ADAMS

"Chantecler," the much announced, will reach the Lowell Opera House on Dec. 3. One genuine surprise, the prodigious, is in store for the audience, however, despite the fuss and feathers that have been made about this production. For previous to the play, Adams appears before the restless curiosity, these boys are possessed of fine voices and would be a hit if they had no inebriated reputation. All are well known to Lowell fans, three of the four having played ball in the New England league, while Bradley is well remembered as a fine baritone singer in this city, having many friends here.

Adams' appearance outside of the costume role has been announced of course; but so slightly is the nature of it realized that when she appears before the footlights there falls a second to the audience and well she deserves the enthusiasm she always receives. Yet, somehow, her showing here to be the real Miss Adams of the old days, makes the crowded theatre wait all the more impatiently through the novel and amusing opening minutes of the play to see about and hear for "Chantecler" himself.

Mat orders for this engagement are now being accepted. Box office sale opens Nov. 28.

ROBBED OF $271.24

SALEM MAN HELD UP AT BRUNSWICK, ME.

BRUNSWICK, Me., Nov. 20.—Albert Leblanc of Salem, Mass., who is visiting his uncle, Callais Bernier, on Prospect street, was held up by two masked highwaymen about 12:30 yesterday morning and robbed of $271.24. Mr. Leblanc recently patented an invention which he expects to sell to a Chicago man, and came to Topsham for a short visit before going west.

Saturday evening he spent with his cousin, John Fortin, in Brunswick. At midnight he went to the railroad station to see about getting his ticket for Chicago, and the started for his uncle's home. When he reached the Topsham end of the suspension bridge, two men stepped out from behind a tree, and pointing revolvers at him, ordered him to throw up his hands.

While one man kept him covered, the other searched him, and found the money in a belt under his shirt. The highwaymen then ran. Leblanc reported his loss to the Topsham and Brunswick police, who hunted in vain for the men for several hours.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

"The batteries for today are—"

Or, rather, the headliners for this week at Keith's are the celebrated Red Sox quartet, "Buck" O'Brien, Martin McLane, Hugh Bradley and Bill Lyons, big leaguers in vaudeville, even as they are on the diamond, and on singing they are class A goods. Since the closing of the baseball season this quartet has been on the Keith circuit and has been making good every minute for, unlike the prize fighters who become actors and who are seen only through curiosity, these boys are possessed of fine voices and would be a hit if they had no inebriated reputation. All are well known to Lowell fans, three of the four having played ball in the New England league, while Bradley is well remembered as a fine baritone singer in this city, having many friends here.

In their solo numbers will include: "When You and I Were Young," "Magpie," by Martin McLane; "The Garden of My Heart," by "Buck" O'Brien; "Any Old Port in a Storm," by Bill Lyons, and "Oh, You Beautiful Doll," by Hugh Bradley. On the bill with the Red Sox are the Four Bards, the world's greatest vocalists, in a series of new songs, Lucille Laverne and company, including James Thatcher, a local favorite, will present a charming comedy playlet, entitled "How Jasper Fixed It." Miss Laverne was the comedy hit of Keith's Boston theatre, and a few seasons ago was the favorite of the Boston theatre-going community. She came with William Gillette for four seasons and she created the part of "Clancy" in the original production of "Charlies." She wrote and played the leading part in "Anna Bayd," now being presented by the Schuberts, Monrose and Macle. The "New Recruits," two of the finest comedienne comedians on the stage, Carlin and Penn are German dialect comedians. The Elliotts have one of the best musical acts in vaudeville. They play on harps and violins exclusively, and are high class musicians. Paul LeCron, the mad hatter, has an interesting comedy act. A comedian, Madden and Nugent present "Too Many Darlings," a veritable scream. And besides there are pictures and a program by Keith's new orchestra, Arthur Martel leader. Seats may be ordered in advance by telephone, 311.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

The Donald Meek stock company this week will present Anthony Willis' beautiful comedy-drama, "The Struggle," a play much akin in character to David Warfield's recent success, "The Music Master," though having considerable comedy in its make-up unlike "The Music Master." While the story is such as to bring out some pathetic incidents the play is not what would be popularly called a "sad" play and any inclination to tears is speedily checked by the frequent flashes of bright comedy. The story is that of the struggle for existence of a German tailor and his family of the East Side in New York. The family consists of a daughter just budding into womanhood and a younger adopted daughter. The older daughter falls in love with an actor and persisting in rejecting his attentions despite her parents' objections, is turned from home, the parents thus depriving themselves of her support. Through business reverses they are reduced to poverty and the father while a member of the jury, spurning the request of an unscrupulous wealthy man who is in legal trouble to act as a witness, becomes the victim of the latter's wrath and is being crowded to the wall when the daughter who has married the actor and married well returns to her home and upon learning of her parents' plight immediately comes to their financial aid and makes them comfortable for the remainder of their days while they become reconciled to her and her husband. Through the story runs a light side furnished by two comedy characters, a lively young newspaper man who is always around and a funny German character, the former played by Mr. Meek and the latter by Mr. Walsh. Mr. Stevens and Miss Spinnier as the parents and Miss Spinnier as the daughter while Miss Langdon appears as the younger daughter. The play is in four acts and will be elaborately staged and presented under the personal direction of Mr. Meek. Today is chocolate matinee day and each lady holding a reserved seat ticket receives a box of choice chocolates.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

What looks to be one of the strongest attractions booked at the Merrimack Square theatre in many, many weeks, will open up a week's engagement at this popular playhouse this afternoon. The program includes five big vaudeville acts, and judging from the advance notices which precede them one would naturally conclude that the management had secured a collection of entertainers that are sure of enjoying a most successful run.

BISHOP GROUARD, O. M. I.

Tells of Work of Oblate Fathers Among the Indians

Mgr. Emile Jean Marie Grouard, O. M. I., bishop of Ithaca and vicar apostolic of Athabaska-Mackenzie, the region that extends farthest north in the Dominion of Canada, was yesterday the guest of the Oblate Fathers of St. Joseph's and Notre-Dame de Lourdes parishes.

The distinguished prelate is on a journey across the continent collecting funds for his missions in the far north. Yesterday forenoon he preached at high mass at St. Jean Baptist church, and last night he also delivered a sermon at vespers at Notre Dame de Lourdes church. He left this morning for the Tewksbury novitiate where he will spend a few days after which he will be the guest of Mgr. Provost of the Fall River diocese.

Mgr. Grouard was born in Sabie (le Mans), a department in France, 71 years ago; he was ordained to the priesthood on May 3, 1862; his profession, he made the year following, on Nov. 21, 1863. While still a young priest he was sent to the missions of Athabaska and has been there ever since, a period of about 50 years, spent in the utmost privation, and in company with savages and ignorant natives. He has performed work of every kind, from his own household duties in that foreign country to saving the boards that went to make the first mission.

Fr. Grouard was appointed to the position of director of all the missions of Athabaska on Oct. 18, 1899, and was consecrated bishop on Aug. 1, 1891. There are now 15 regularly constituted missions in Athabaska-Mackenzie, and these are managed by 24 Oblate fathers, and until lately, 27 lay brothers. From these missions, missionaries go out to the various tribes of Indians, most of whom are nomads. The misfortunes which these missions have undergone in the past year are the cause of the bishop's visit to the United States. In the effort to interest people in them and obtain help.

The bishop's sermon at St. Jean Baptist church yesterday morning was simple, and it recalled some of the hardships and some of the good work accomplished among the Indians of that country. The prelate spoke in part as follows:

"I will take you in spirit to Canada, to that part of it lying beyond Alberta, Saskatchewan and those other western provinces of Canada, to the immense country north of that, and which is practically a closed country, for the railroad goes only as far as Edmonton and there stops. After that, it is a struggle to get on, and the region where my missions are, Athabaska, is a cold country and extends as far north as the pole, in fact, I myself have gone as far as the edge of the North sea. It is inhabited by wild animals and tribes of Indians who have hunting and fishing as their only means of existence. The only part of that vast territory that would lend itself to cultivation is in the vicinity of the Peace river and Lake Athabaska; all the rest is frozen ground and it is only with the greatest of difficulty that the fathers at the missions are able to cultivate a small potato patch for their use. At present there is a report that some enterprising firm is to undertake the colonization of part of that territory, and if so, I would dearly like to see some of the French there.

"There was no law, either religious or civil, among the Indians; the Hudson Bay Trading Co. had established trading posts here and there throughout the country, and the natives brought their furs here from time to time in exchange for some trifles or sometimes, utensils of which they are in dire need. However, there was a ray of intelligence in these savage tribes and I was very much impressed by it as I will prove in a moment by an incident.

"When I, a missionary, arrived there, I had first to learn the language of the Indians, and that in itself was a very difficult task, for there were no books, and only intercourse with the Indians themselves could teach me the language. Then the next step was to build a mission, or chapel, and for this, when I first went there, for instance, the missionary had to do the work himself. I had even to make the boards for the flooring, while what little help I was able to get from the Indians, I had to pay for in trade, such as the Hudson Bay company does. However, after I had succeeded in converting one of them, an Indian lad of about 16 years of age, I had a conversation with him in which he told me that he knew there was a God before I came. I asked him how he came to know, and he told me the following tale: 'One day, while I was on a long hunt, I came to a beautiful lake. The weather was beautiful and everything looked so lovely that I told myself that there must be some one greater than anyone who had made all these beautiful things. When you came and told me, then I knew and believed there was a God.'

"Morals were unknown in that region, among the Indians especially, and the women were treated like beasts of burden. We instructed them in the creation of the world, and of man and woman; also in regard to

Teacher of Singing

SPEAKS ON AN INTERESTING TOPIC

P. Walfron Rhinoceros, who is a graduate from the Royal Academy of Music, London, England, and who is a well known professor of singing in this city, made the following statement recently in connection with "Tona Vita," the remarkable new tonic that is now being introduced in Lowell at the Hall & Lyon drug company.

He said: "Having given 'Tona Vita' a fair trial for several weeks, I can speak with confidence regarding it. It certainly does all and more than is claimed for it, for brain fog, tired, run down feeling, nervous prostration, and during convalescence it is excellent. I should especially advise singers and people using the voice much, such as actors, and all public speakers, to give 'Tona Vita' an opportunity of showing its efficacy as a brace. I feel sure that they will endorse my opinion. I shall certainly recommend it to my pupils as I consider it without an equal as an invigorating product."

The specialists who are introducing "Tona Vita" in Lowell are giving demonstrations of what the medicine will do in five minutes. All day long they meet callers at the store where they are located and try to produce a noticeable improvement in all cases of nervous debility within five minutes, the people who take the medicine to be the judge. There is no charge for this demonstration, and several hundred people tried the experiment recently with a single failure.

One of the specialists said: "Tona Vita" will break all records in Lowell like it is doing in all big cities of this country today. We are instructed by our company to take no money for the tonic unless the medicine proves satisfactory. Hundreds upon hundreds in this and other large towns are afflicted with nervous debility caused by the strain of modern city life.

"The entire system becomes run down in such cases and nervousness, stomach trouble, headaches, backaches, despondency and loss of vitality result. 'Tona Vita' will work wonders in such cases in a remarkably short time. It doesn't hurt, and it doesn't cost more than it takes to come and get the medicine."

The specialists will be at the Hall & Lyon Drug Co. daily between the hours of 9 a. m. and 8 p. m., where they will meet all callers and explain the nature of their new preparation.

the laws of marriage. "They came to believe these truths and came to us to be baptized, and before long, we had a number of happy households among the poor Indians. One instance in particular, when a powerful chief with three wives had resisted strenuously, several attempts by different missionaries to convert him, it finally came to us and his entire family was baptized and became Catholics. It happened on a beautiful day when he was on a hunt and had his three lodges with him. Breaking camp suddenly one day, he came to the mission and asked the priest to show him how to pray, but the missionary, before giving him the sacrament, imposed the condition that he must choose one wife from among his three and let the other two go their way. This was a puzzle for the chief, but he finally decided upon the oldest one. The second oldest had a son, 18 years old, who promised to look after her, and they too, were baptized. The youngest wife and her children were looked after by the chief and his wife, and the entire family were baptized and their sinful mode of living was righted.

"The misery among most of these Indians is frightful, and the stories that we sometimes hear are heart-rending. For instance, a woman once came to me crying and saying her heart would break, and claiming that she had committed a horrible sin. I asked her what she had done, and she told me that while on a hunting trip with her husband, they had had very poor success, and that through lack of food, her little girl, only five months old, had died. Both she and her husband were slowly starving to death, and when the Indian saw his little dead daughter, he ordered his wife to cut her up and provide food for the two of them so that they would not starve. This she refused to do at first, but threats on the part of her husband proved stronger than her feelings and she did as she was told, but refused to eat any of the flesh. When I asked her about the sin she had committed, she admitted that she had drunk some of the broth, to keep from starving.

The reverend gentleman concluded with an earnest appeal to the generosity of the parishioners and also spoke briefly on the general characteristics of the Indians of that country.

CHELMSFORD

William H. Dooley, superintendent of the Lowell industrial school, will speak before the Chelmsford Boys' club on industrial education next Friday afternoon. On the same afternoon James Kilbird, master of the North Chelmsford Boy Scouts, will speak on "First Aid to the Injured." On Thursday last Eben T. Adams spoke on town government.

LIVELY MIX-UP

A BAD RUNAWAY ACCIDENT AT BRAINTREE

BRAINTREE, Nov. 20.—Four persons were thrown out of a carriage which was overturned after being in collision with an automobile on Quincy avenue bridge yesterday afternoon in a runaway accident. Mrs. William H. Williams of 120 Liberty street, Quincy, who was in the carriage, was injured.

The horse was driven by Mr. Williams and was attached to a two-seated demerol wagon in which besides Mr. and Mrs. Williams were their child and another woman who did not give her name. The wagon, an electric car and an automobile in which was Rep. Wm. B. Thomas of Quincy, came on the bridge all at the same time.

The horse became frightened at the sudden crowding of the roadway and started to plunge and rear. He caused the wagon to strike the automobile, bending the carriage over. The occupants were thrown out, but the horse was grabbed before he had a chance to drag the overturned carriage.

Mrs. Williams sustained a sprained ankle and was taken to her home in Quincy. The others suffered only a shaking up.

FORMER PASTOR

Preached at the Kirk Street Church

The Rev. W. A. Bartlett, D. D., was right at home yesterday at the Kirk Street Congregational church. He is a former pastor of that church and loves Lowell and her people. He delivered the morning sermon yesterday and had for his subject the simple text: "Why Jesus Came." He found his inspiration in the passage, "For the earth bringeth forth fruit for herself, first the blade, then the ear and then the full corn in the ear." He said in part:

"I was once hanging onto a strap in a street car very much ill at ease and out of humor with the world. An old gentleman standing beside me called my attention to the beautiful sunset. I looked out of the window and saw at the foot of the purple hills outlined against a mass of gorgeous colored sunset and gold clouds with their fascinating changes in coloring as the twilight fell. Soon I was lost in as beautiful a sight as I ever saw in Europe. Not even in the Alps could one have hoped to have found a more beautiful sunset. I forgot all about my discomfort and I thought of that old verse: 'I will look up into the hills whence cometh my help.' That is often the trouble with us when we are unhappy; we have not looked up into the hills, we have only looked down into our own little selves. We look up and around ourselves, we must see the beauty which God has placed around us at every hand. Even the bare tree trunks have a beauty. The woods in winter seem only to be in some beautiful sleep and not dead. Every season has its beauty if we will only look around us and see it.

"And when we try to conceive of what sort of a man Jesus was, we find that above all things he was an outdoor man. All throughout his life we find him outdoors, in the field, in the little fishing boats and on the crowded streets of the cities. He began his ministry in the fields, he was baptized in the river Jordan, his praying closet was on the tops of mountains, his hour of agony was in the Garden of Gethsemane, his transfiguration took place in the mountains, and his death was on a little hill, and his body was nailed to the trunks of trees. In all his parables he gets the people to look around them by his allusions to the blades of grass, the corn in the fields and the bushes on the hillside, to the olive tree and the fig, to the foxes and the other animals of the field, and to all the outdoor occupations of men such as the fisherman, the sower and the tillers of the soil.

"But although Jesus was an outdoor man, he never told us that we could worship God through an appreciation of nature only. We find a great many people who feel that on these fine autumn days they can worship God more truly out in the country and surrounded by the beauties of nature than they can in any stuffy church. But the trouble with people is that they usually go too far to get into admiration or even appreciation of nature. And admiration although it does partake of the nature of worship, can never become a substitute for it, even in the slightest degree. Worship in spirit never rises to higher places than that which is attained in prayer.

"We all take great delight in our gardens. And how extremely urgent we are about them. Most of you have probably done all of your fall planting by this time. And when we were preparing them we found ourselves bound by the fixed and inexorable laws of nature. We had to pay great attention to the soil, and the position of the plant and the particular make-up of the soil to get the best results.

"Jesus in his parables is not interested in the development of the animals or of the plants, but he was interested in the laws which they exemplified. The kingdom of God which is in everyone is governed by just as inexorable laws. Men are sometimes heard to express that old attitude toward religion; that religion is merely a matter of sentiment and mere opinion. But the law is just as true in the case of man as it is with the plants and animals. There is no deviation from the rule that 'as a man sows, so shall he also reap.' As a man speaks and lives, so shall his reward be, and that is his religion."

The Woman Who Doesn't Know

Merely orders "flour."

And the grocer thinks that she doesn't care.

But she does.

What woman lacks pride in her baking?

But she doesn't know how flours differ.

Else she doesn't think.

And, by leaving the choice to someone else, she gets the wrong flour at times.

Gold Medal Flour is selected flour. It comes from the heart of the wheat.

It is the sifted-out flour—the perfect flour—which comes through ten sheets of fine silk.

None but this cream of the flour is ever branded Gold Medal. Yet lesser grades—hundreds of them—cost just as much as this.

This is the flour which has come to outsell every other flour in existence. You'll get it always when you find it out.

ENGINE ON RAMPAGE

Left B. & M. Roundhouse From Unknown Cause

The big mogul engine No. 1339 of the local division of the Boston & Maine which was supposed to "stand without hitching" in the roundhouse when not in operation, played a crazy freak yesterday and after ripping another engine off the track ripped a big hole in the brick wall of the roundhouse and wound up in Hale's brook.

the parlance of the railroad men it "just went crazy."

According to employees of the railroad engine 1339 after its daily run on Saturday was backed into the roundhouse and stood for the night. The engine was backed for the night and the steam allowed to remain in it, as usual.

About 10 o'clock yesterday it suddenly started up and with steam escaping in wild disorder, tore out of the roundhouse and proceeded toward the main tracks. When nearing the turntable, it struck another large freight engine, tossing it from the rails.

Then a strange thing occurred, for the wild engine instead of continuing in the direction it had started suddenly went back into the roundhouse as fast as it had come out. Striking the double brick wall in the rear, the tender went through it as though it were of paper and dropped into Hale's brook, a distance of nearly 20 feet, turning completely over as it dropped. The engine followed and dropped on top of the tender, where it remained, snorting as the steam escaped and its wheels revolving in the air under a vast amount of pressure.

The few employees of the road who were in the vicinity state positively that no one was in the roundhouse at the time.

PRINCESS INDITA TO BECOME THE BRIDE OF A CHINESE

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 20.—Princess Indita, a full-blooded Indian beauty, though she would be taken for a white if she did not proudly claim the late Indian chief Gray Eagle, a Sioux, as her father, arrived in Seattle today on her way to Honolulu to wed John Henry Magoon, a wealthy Chinaman. Magoon owns and operates a string of theatres in the Hawaiian Islands.

Princess Indita, while only 18 and a graduate of the Riggs Institute at Hahonau, S. D., and possessing a fortune in her own right, has traveled around the world to find the man she loves, and she found him in a Chinaman. Chicago she cordially hates. It was the first large city she visited after having graduated from the institute, when she donned the clothes of the white and was started on a tour of the world.

"Civilization in Chicago is a sham," declared the petite Indian beauty at the Seattle hotel. "The women of Chicago are perfect cats and they force one like me born in the tepee to long to get back to nature and the woods, as I will as soon as Mr. Magoon and I are married."

NORTH CHELMSFORD

In a close and exciting game of soccer football at North Chelmsford Saturday the home team defeated the Buntinghs, scoring one goal, while the visitors failed to score, Gabriel Audon refereed.

At the masses in St. John's church yesterday Rev. Fr. Schofield made public acknowledgment of the gift to the church of the beautiful painting of "The Madonna of the Clouds" by Miss Sadie Leahy, a talented young resident of the parish. After the second mass the painting was blessed by the pastor, Rev. Fr. Schofield, who thanked the donor in behalf of the church and congregation of which he was pastor.

Fr. Schofield also announced to the congregation that he had the pleasure of being among the many who were present at the sailing of Cardinal O'Connell for Rome and was the first one to shake his hand upon his arrival on the ship. He said that the day was not far distant when there would be an American pope ruling over the Roman Catholic church. While there were many there who might never live to see it, there were many in the congregation who would remember his words.

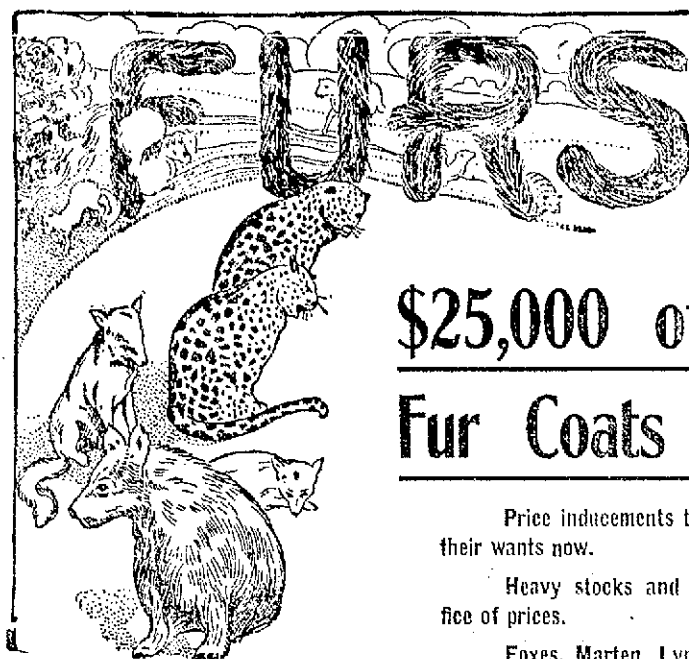

During his remarks he took occasion to congratulate the classes of boys from the Training school, who during the past few Sundays have received holy communion in the church, and especially the class of small boys, who were present at the morning service. He also referred to the appointment of the superintendent of the school and spoke of the splendid work that had been done under the acting superintendent, Mr. Mason.

A meeting of all the men of the parish was called for 7 o'clock in the evening in St. John's hall for the formation of a society that would be of benefit to the parish. He impressed upon the parishioners that any assistance that they showed to Fr. Doherty would be appreciated by him as any movement started by Fr. Doherty had his full consent and hearty support. At the meeting held last night there was a large number of men, young and old present. The plans submitted by the committee at the previous meeting were received favorably and by the spirit shown last night the society will be a great benefit to the men of the parish, for it was a long felt want. The officers elected were as follows: President John J. Monahan, vice president James P. Quigley; secretary, Gabriel Audon and treasurer, Rev. M. F. Doherty. The board of directors is to be elected at the next meeting, and the society will be known as "The Catholic Club" of St. John's parish. Fifty-one members enrolled on the charter last night and it was voted to hold the charter open for thirty days.

COMPOSITORS SUCCEEDED IN EXTINGUISHING BLAZE

BOSTON, Nov. 20.—The Boston Post compositors turned firefighters shortly after their paper had gone to press today when a fire started in Child's cafe on the first floor of the Post building. In a smoke-filled room the compositors got out a line of emergency hose and turned a stream on the burning restaurant beneath them. The blaze was extinguished with a loss of about $500. The fire is believed to have been caused by defective wiring.

Observed Martyrs Day at Leather Workers Hall

At Leather Workers hall yesterday afternoon, Branch O'Neil Crowley, Irish National Foresters, held a largely attended meeting in memory of the Manchester martyrs, Allen, Larkin and O'Brien, executed Nov. 23, 1857, at Manchester, England, for implication in the rescue of two Fenian prisoners in which a policeman was fatally shot.

Mr. Maurice Hannahan presided and after a business meeting at which several candidates were initiated, he delivered an address of welcome to the members and guests.

Mr. Edward J. Gallagher, who had been invited to deliver an address on the occasion, spoke of the men in various ages who had died for the cause of Irish freedom. He reviewed the Fenian insurrections of 1848 and 1867 and pointed out the reforms that had followed the work of the patriots who showed a willingness to die for the cause they espoused. He then dwelt upon the Manchester rescue in which five men were convicted under a single act of Irish freedom. It Is Very Important

That You Should Get the

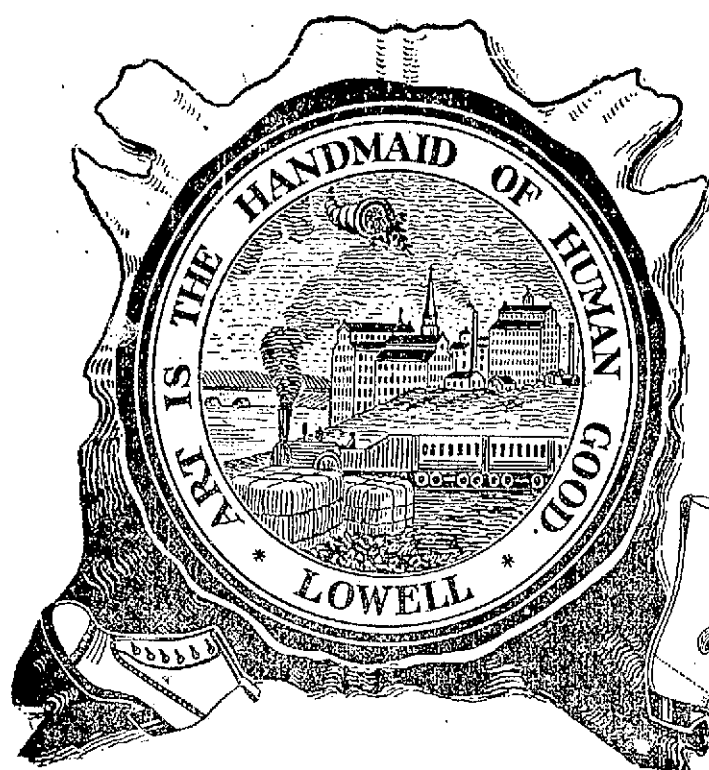

Best Parlor Stove Made

Not only because you want heat and plenty of heat. The cheapest kind of heating stove will give you all the heat you want. But a cheap stove will wear out quickly and you will have to buy another one—and that costs money. A cheaply built stove will burn twice as much coal in giving the same amount of heat that a CRAWFORD STOVE would. So your cheap stove is no longer a cheap stove, but a dear—a very dear—stove.

In a cheap stove you have a roaring big fire for a while and then your fire goes out, and that means a lot of trouble. With a CRAWFORD HEATING STOVE you can keep your fire going from now till next spring with less coal, less time and less trouble than any stove made and it will last a lifetime.

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1910 was

15,976

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public

This is the week in which the people of Lowell can decide whether they will have good government or bad. It all depends upon their choice of candidates.

Today the open season for the shooting of deer west of the Connecticut river arrives, and hunters will doubtless make the most of it, if they take sufficient care not to mistake one another for deer.

It is wrong to bring the religious issue into any political contest and particularly a contest for the school board. It matters not how, where or by whom the mischief started it is a short sighted blunder and can result only in injury to all concerned.

Now that we are on the verge of the skating season we presume there will be the usual number of victims of thin ice. It is wonderful what recklessness young people show in venturing upon thin ice without taking the slightest precaution to test its strength.

WERE VOTES PURCHASED?

If, as is alleged, votes were openly purchased in New Bedford in an effort to defeat Governor Foss in the recent election the matter should be thoroughly investigated. It is charged that failure to pay the amount agreed upon for votes has brought the matter to public attention. If there can be found evidence sufficient to convict, the guilty parties should be punished with the utmost severity.

JEWISH AMERICANS DEMAND PROTECTION

There is no reason why our government should not protect American citizens who are Jews in their rights when they see fit to go to Russia. There has been too much connivance at the abuses heaped upon American citizens of this class in Russia. Russia should be taught that the badge of an American citizen is a shield to be respected in every civilized country in the world, and that the claim that they are Jewish citizens does not in the slightest degree affect their standing in the eyes of the American constitution. They are entitled to full protection, and it is the duty of our government to accord them that protection without further delay. The meetings of Jews held in various parts of this country to demand the protection abroad that is given to other citizens should be unnecessary. The government should do its duty and do it at once in a manner that will settle this Russian-Jewish-American question for all time.

NEW FIRE BOX NEEDED

There is need of a new fire box in the vicinity of the Rogers Hall school. Where so many young ladies are housed nightly there should be a box nearer the building than Porter street or Nesmith. Young women or old for that matter do not like the idea of rushing out at the dead of night as they might have to do in case of fire to run to a fire alarm box a considerable distance away. That district is growing and a box located there would accommodate a thickly settled territory that is not sufficiently protected by the other alarm boxes.

We do not intimate in the remotest degree that there is danger of fire at the Rogers Hall school, but the neighbors in that locality feel the need of a fire alarm box, although their buildings are not nearly so valuable as the school building. Besides the Rogers Hall school is putting up a fine gymnasium that will add to the value of the buildings to be protected.

NOW THE SIFTING PROCESS

It seems that a great many people are still at sea, so to speak, in regard to how they will vote at the coming primaries. Unless the voters take up the ballot and study it carefully they will undoubtedly cast a great many blanks through error. In spite of all explanations a great many people are of the opinion that they can vote for eight aldermen and ten school committeemen. There is no provision in the new charter for voting for more officials than are to be elected. We have to elect a mayor and four aldermen or commissioners. Therefore, any citizen who votes for more than one candidate for mayor or more than four candidates for aldermen will spoil his ballot. The same rule holds good in regard to the school board. Only five candidates can be voted for. It is to be hoped that there will be no mistakes made on these matters that would cause the ballots to be thrown out.

The greatest trouble, however, will be to make a wise selection from the long list of candidates. That list is printed in the paper and every voter can take it up and study it so that when the primaries come he will have his mind made up as to whom he will vote for. There are a great many candidates who should be dismissed without any consideration, and this is where the voter will have to exercise good judgment. If he votes only for the people who get around to ask him for his vote or who buttonhole him on the street corners, he certainly will not help elect the best men. There are certain candidates for all the offices who will not ask anybody for votes. Neither will they do any advertising. Yet some of these are among the best candidates on the ticket. They were induced to enter the fight through the persuasion of their friends, and they have simply consented to run and will not make any effort to influence the voters in their behalf.

The citizens can felicitate themselves that in this election there is a sufficiently long list to select from. If the men nominated prove not to be of the right stamp, the fault will lie with the voters alone. There are good men up for all the offices, but it remains to be seen whether the people want such men or whether they prefer men of second or third rate ability. It is necessary that a man running for a municipal office at a salary of $2500 per year should have some capability, some business experience; that he be trustworthy in his dealings, and that he can be relied upon to protect and promote the best interests of the city so far as lies in his power. That is the kind of men we want, and it rests with the voters to decide whether they will select this stamp of citizen for the offices to be filled. Whatever the character of the men nominated may be it will reflect the popular sentiment as to the kind of officials they want at city hall.

SEEN AND HEARD

Alexander M. Dockery, former governor of Missouri, was at one time a member of the house of representatives, and, while filling the job, made the acquaintance of a needy young man who formed the habit of borrowing too much money. Dockery got tired of being "touched" every few days and decided to put a stop to it.

One day he was called out of the house chamber by the borrowing friend. "Say, Dockery," came the usual request, "can you lend me 20?" Dockery looked grumpy and cast down, and felt in all of his pockets and nearly succeeding in squeezing out a tear from his left eye.

"I haven't got a cent," he said in sepulchral tone. At that moment he spied a page boy coming down the corridor—a boy who, he knew, was always hard up. The legislator saw a way of making an effective escape.

"I don't even know where I could borrow the money for you, Ben," he concluded. Turning quickly, he called the page. "Ray, my boy," he said kindly, "have you 20 with you?" The boy put his hand into a pocket, Dockery took a few steps toward the door, the would-be borrower began to moan.

"Yes, sir," said the lad. "Here it is." In the scramble that followed a premature discharge of dynamite in a building lot a stout man lost a scarf. After he began to search for it he noticed another man poking around in the dust and debris. He immediately grew suspicious, and at last he spoke.

"I do not wish to give offense," he said, "but I must ask you to refrain from assisting me in this search. I appreciate your willingness to assist, but as a means of self-protection I long ago made it a rule never to allow strangers to assist me in a search for a lost article."

"O, very well," said the stranger. "You have no objection to my looking on, I suppose?" He sat down on the curbstone and watched the stout man sift dust and overturn stones. After twenty minutes of painful stooping the stout man found a scarf.

"But it is not my pin," he said, dejectedly. "No, it's mine," said the other man. "I heard it strike somewhere hereabout. That was what I set out to look for, but when I saw how anxious you were for the job I let you go ahead. Your own scarfpin, if you want to know, is sticking to the flap of your left coat pocket."

NEVER PROVE FALSE TO A FRIEND. Never prove false to a friend. In love and in friendship be true. Never prove false to a friend. So long as he's faithful to you. But when he's dishonest, a knife in others' opinions, but then to you he is generous and kind. And one of the noblest of men.

Is any man free from each fault? All righteous and good in his ways? Lives there a worm on earth? That he can be named but in praise? Never speak ill of a friend. To gossipers keep closed your ear. An excellent rule in the main. Is to credit one-tenth what you hear.

Stand by a man in distress. When you know he is really in need. What matter if even he fails? There is honor for you in the deed. Think one may deserve you, 'tis true. Then his aid and not yours the disgrace. Because we find one man untrue. Shall we wrong or distrust the whole race?

CARD OF THANKS. We, the undersigned, wish to extend our heartfelt thanks for the many acts of kindness and the sympathy shown to us in our recent bereavement; also for the beautiful floral tributes. Mr. James B. Martin and family, 185 Fletcher Street.

MAN RESCUED AT FIRE

Taken Down Ladder After Being Overcome by Smoke

LYNN, Nov. 20.—While the three-story wooden lodging house at 63-65 Summer street was in flames early yesterday morning, Firemen Henry Haddock and Miner Ballard of Ladder 3 made a spectacular rescue of Robert Galloupe, a lodger, who had been overcome by smoke at a window on the third floor of the structure.

He was the only one of the 20 occupants of rooms whom the firemen were obliged to carry from the building, but several others, including the owner, Mrs. Frank Kimball, were assisted from the hallway on the second floor, where they were found by firemen and the police. Several declared that they had to dash through flames to leave their rooms, but none suffered any injury.

The fire threatened to communicate to adjoining buildings, and it required the hardest work by three engine companies to keep the flames confined to the lodging house. The damage was estimated at $5000.

Find Their Doors Burning

Just after 4 o'clock Thomas Egan, employed as a night watchman at the Mathew hall, discovered the rear of the lodging house in flames. He threw a rock through a window in the room of David Healey, just as Walter Dean, a lodger on the second floor, was aroused by the intense heat. Dean and Charles Berry, who roomed across the hall, found the doors of their rooms burning when they started to go out into the hallway, but both escaped without suffering injury. Both men ran through the house, awakening the other lodgers, and Dean made his way to the third floor, where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Dean, elderly persons, were asleep. He assisted them to the street, clad only in their nightclothes.

Returned For Her Husband

William Adams, another lodger, sent in an alarm from box 524, and when companies from the Broad street station reached the house the flames had spread to the roof. While engine lines were pouring water into the building, Lieut. Martin of Squad A entered the lodging house, and in a dark hall he found Mrs. Kimball, partly overcome by smoke. She had left the house, but had returned to search for her husband. Lieut. Martin assisted her to the street.

Lieut. Martin and other firemen then went through the rooms on the second floor, but found that everyone had departed. The smoke was so thick and the flames spread so rapidly that the firemen were forced to leave.

Galloupe Calls for Help

While the blaze was at its height, Galloupe, appeared at a third story window and shouted for assistance. Members of Ladder 3 quickly raised a long ladder and Firemen Haddock and Ballard entered the house and found Galloupe overcome. He was taken to the street over the ladder. The cold air quickly revived him.

CARDINAL GIBBONS

Declares in Favor of the Arbitration Treaties

BALTIMORE, Nov. 20.—"I sincerely hope that the new arbitration treaties negotiated by our national government with Great Britain and France will be ratified by the senate," said Cardinal Gibbons to a reporter. "They should receive the support of the whole country. It is of the utmost importance that civilized nations should bind themselves in advance to submit to arbitration all international questions which can be settled by the application of principles of law and equity, and I can see no reason why there should not be appointed joint commissions to investigate International controversies and determine whether particular questions are of such a character, so that each nation will be in honor bound to submit these issues to international arbitration rather than to resort to war. That idea represents the best spirit of the age. It has indeed it the endorsement of the Christian world."

Among the many advantages of international arbitration," continued the cardinal, "it seems to me to be a very serviceable breakwater against war, because its deliberate and orderly procedure gives a nation's blood time to cool. Formerly it was only necessary to ston the face of a foreign minister and that was considered a sufficient cause belli. Think of a condition in which a personal affront like that was regarded as a justification for the slaughter of multitudes!"

Age of Duelling Gone. "Duels between individuals were once frequent in this country. Even in the United States senate and house of representatives an insult would be followed by an armed combat. The nation, however, has grown wiser and better, and the duel has been relegated to the museum of extinct social monstrosities. I do not see why the same influence that led to the suppression of duels between individuals should not produce a like result in the affairs of nations which are simply aggregations of individuals. General international arbitration treaties seem to me to be the surest and quietest means through which the universal peace may be effected, or at least approached."

RELIABILITY. "When we consider the evils of war our eyes are directed almost exclusively to the combatants themselves. We have no thoughts for the non-combatants. The truth is that the most frightful sufferings of war are borne by the wives and children of those who fight in the field. The bitter agony of their waiting and anxiety is far worse than the more physical hardships and sufferings of the armed men. A wound to the loved one in battle strikes more cruelly those who have to wait at home. Physical suffering usually dissipates the fear of death. Men can suffer and die bravely in the excitement of war, but harder, much harder, to bear is the moral agony of those who must wait, without power to help their dear ones in danger."

SHE HAD CONSTANT PAIN

Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Dewittville, N.Y.—"Before I started to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I suffered nearly all the time with head aches, backaches, and bearing down pains, and had a continuous pain in my left side. I made me sick if I tried to walk much, and my back was so weak that I was obliged to wear corsets all the time. But now I do not have any of these troubles. I have a fine strong baby daughter now, which I did not have before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound." Mrs. A. A. GILES, Route 44, Dewittville, N.Y.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company, which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

We challenge anyone to name even one other medicine that has been so successful in relieving woman's suffering as has Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

TOWN OFFICERS

ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF SHOOTING A DEER

HADLEY, Nov. 20.—Thomas Hickey of North Hadley, chairman of the board of selectmen, and William Cummings, a town constable, were arrested yesterday charged with shooting a deer out of season and with using a rifle for the purpose.

It is alleged that they went to Shutesbury last Wednesday and killed a deer, bringing it back in an automobile. They were released on bail.

The arrests were made by Deputies D. J. Shea of Ware and Jas. P. Hatch of Springfield.

SUPT. NOT ELECTED

County Commissioners Transacted Routine Business Only

County Commissioner Levi S. Gould in the recent state election carried the great county of Middlesex by 10,713 votes, while Lieut. Gov. Frothingham carried it by only 1890.

Of the 40 or more towns in the county, not including the 11 cities, only two, Natick and Hopkinton, gave a majority to the democratic candidate.

The county commissioners met at the court house in regular session this morning, Commissioners Gould and Richardson being in attendance, Commissioner Williams absent.

The Training School

The commissioners took no action on the election of a superintendent of training school and expressed surprise at reading in the Lowell papers that the election was to take place today. In reference to the rumor that in the event of his defeat for commissioner he would have been elected to the Training School position, Mr. Gould said: "I can't understand how such a story started. I wouldn't accept the position for all the money in Kingdom Come. I wouldn't be able to fill the position, in the first place. Somebody must have been trying to spring a joke."

"I wouldn't have voted for you, anyway," said Commissioner Richardson, smilingly.

The Ferrin Land

Mrs. Henry Ferrin of Chelmsford appeared before the commissioners in relation to a parcel of land owned by her in Princeton street, opposite the Training school lot through which a 10 inch pipe drain runs from the school property.

Mrs. Ferrin complains that the existence of this drain on her land, which is assessed for $3000, makes it unsalable and she wants the county either to acquire it or grant her land damages.

Commissioner Gould told her that under the law the county could not aid her. The drain was laid in 1901, after due legal process, which is properly recorded. At the time of the laying of the drain there was no claim for land damages and that claim now is out of the question.

Furthermore the county having laid the drain by legal permission is under no obligation to pay the owner of the land anything at this time. In regard to the county taking the land, its location on the opposite side of Princeton street makes it undesirable for the purposes of the Training school and even if the county should take it the assessed value could not be realized. It was suggested that Mrs. Ferrin petition the Chelmsford assessors for relief and she was advised to consult counsel in the matter. There was no other business.

In an effort to persuade the hunter to refrain from shooting deer, representatives of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals scoured the woods.

STOCK MARKET

WAS WEAK AT THE CLOSE THIS AFTERNOON

Weakness developed in the 100 Stocks

U. S. Steel Was Sold Quite Freely

Other Important Stocks Sagged to the Lowest of the Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Heavy selling of the leading speculative stocks unsettled the market at the opening today. Pressure was most severe against U. S. Steel, which was forced down a point, U. P. and American Cotton Oil also lost a point. Western Maryland, Great Northern and Northern Ore cts. 12. The Wabash declined a point.

Bear operators kept hammering special stocks, notably St. Paul and U. S. Steel. Blocks of thousands of shares of U. S. Steel were sold down to 62 1/2. Short selling and some liquidation were based on the resumption of the hearing by the Stanley committee. Railroad stocks in general showed some stability after the initial weakness.

Depression in the London market and pressure against the United States Steel and the Wabash issues combined to weaken the market during the morning trading. The demand was not large and prices gave way generally, although the railroad division withstood the attack more successfully.

The industrial short covering and the industrial support for the railroad shares were effective in turning the market upward after the force of the selling movement had spent itself. After some brief periods of hesitation the market began to improve more steadily in the second hour. Copper stocks were purchased on a steadily rising scale. Amal Copper and Utah Copper gained a point.

Strength was shown by stocks despite the gradual contraction in the volume of business. Reading, Lehigh Valley and U. P. all made fair gains. Western stocks generally were neglected but averaged a trifle above last week's figures. Amal Copper lost half of its forenoon gain on profit taking.

The sluggishness of the market led to some selling in the late afternoon and there was a moderate amount of profit-taking. U. P. lost all of its advance. U. S. Steel came back to near the lowest and there was little left of the rise in Reading and Lehigh Valley. Some of the southern stocks were strong. Atlantic Coast Line improving and Louisville & Nashville and Illinois Central 1 1/2.

The market closed weak. Weakness developed in the 100 stocks and the whole transactional group became affected. United States Steel was also sold freely, touching 62 1/2 and other important stocks sagged to the lowest of the day.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The local market was orderly in movement today. By noon there was a general advance. Features were a rise of points in Occidental and of 1 1/2 in Calumet & Arizona.

DARING ATTEMPTS

To Rob a House at Wakefield

WAKEFIELD, Nov. 20.—The popular belief that burglars, like lightning never visit the same place twice has received a setback in Wakefield for the police announced today that unsuccessful attempts to rob the residence of Frank Fitz on Main street were made on Saturday and Sunday nights.

Returning home late Saturday evening, Mr. Fitz surprised two burglars in the reception room of his home. The intruders had previously driven three automobiles and had then set to work to rob the house. They had a pile of silver, jewelry, and clothing on the floor of the reception room but when Mr. Fitz entered they departed through an open window, jumped into a waiting automobile and were whirled away.

Yesterday Mr. Fitz went on an automobile trip. He returned late in the evening and was surprised to find that the backdoor of his home had been broken down. The thieves had just begun their operations when Mr. Fitz entered and they left in a hurry as soon as they caught sight of him. They also departed in an automobile. The police believe that the breaks were the work of the same men who are thought to be professional burglars.

Mr. Fitz's wife, who is president-general of the D. A. R., is in Florida.

TWO POLICE RAIDS

Gathered in Couple That Were Sentenced to Jail

The police made two successful raids early yesterday morning and succeeded in arresting three couples, two being taken from the lodging house at 32 Bridge street, conducted by Mrs. Minnie Pollard, while the third couple was arrested in a room in the Spalding block at the junction of Central and Prescott streets.

The police have received many complaints of disorderly conduct in downtown buildings of late and Supt. Welch is determined to rid Lowell of this nuisance.

Early yesterday morning a squad of police, composed of Sergt. Alexander Duncan, Inspectors Frank Fox and Wm. H. Grady and Patrolman J. A. Clark, called at the boarding house at 32 Bridge street and arrested James Powers and Mary Douglas and George Lewis and Sarah A. Armstrong. They were taken to the police station and booked for illegal cohabitation. In police court this morning each entered a plea of guilty to the complaint. Powers and the Douglas woman were each sentenced to six months in jail and Morrill and the Armstrong woman were each sentenced to six months in the house of correction at Cambridge.

Immediately after the quarter had been removed from the house by the police Mrs. Pollard drank a large quantity of salts of lemon and became violently ill. Later in the morning the ambulance was summoned and she was removed to St. John's hospital, where she received treatment.

Another Couple Arrested

Patrolmen Patric, Drewett, Clancy and Cramer visited the Spalding block in Central street and in one of the rooms found Mary A. Rourke and Chas. A. Burpee. The pair was sent to the police station where the man was booked for adultery and the woman was booked for fornication. The pair appeared in police court this morning and after being found guilty the man was sentenced to six months in jail, while the woman was given a sentence of three months in the same place.

Passed Worthless Checks

Charles M. Fowler, who was formerly employed by a local ring concern, was arrested in Boston yesterday on a warrant issued by the local police charging him with two complaints of larceny. He was brought back to this city by Court Officer Peter Cawley.

Fowler was arraigned in court this morning on complaints charging him with the larceny of $4.50 in money from George S. Gilman and the larceny of $5.59 in money from Mrs. Mary McDermott. He pleaded guilty to each complaint, but asked that the case be continued until tomorrow in order that he might confer with counsel. The request was granted, the defendant being held under $500 bonds for his appearance tomorrow morning.

It is alleged that Fowler passed worthless checks on the two complainants.

Dunken Offenders

Fred M. Billings and Daniel J. Donahue, charged with being drunk, were found guilty and each sentenced to five months in the house of correction at Cambridge.

John J. Kelley will spend the next three months in jail.

Dirle Puquette, Louis Perreault, William Varley, John A. Bashaw, Maria Richardson, Gilbert Turcotte and John C. Driscoll were fined $5 each.

There was but one first offender. Twelve simple drunks were released before the opening of court.

"JACK" KEATING

Former Lowell Telegrapher Did Great Stunt

A notable feat in telegraphy was performed in the Boston office of The Associated Press last Saturday afternoon, when the two big football games at Cambridge and New Haven were sent out complete, play by play, over a single wire.

The report of the two great games, between Harvard and Dartmouth, and Yale and Princeton, came into the Boston office over two special wires from Soldiers' field and Yale field, respectively, the running story of both contests making a total of about 6000 words. This matter was transmitted by Operator John J. Keating, from the Boston office on the single wire, in the less than two hours' time required for the playing of each game, finishing the story of each period within a few minutes after the actual play of both games.

This feat was the more remarkable considering that the transmission in dots and dashes went over a thousand miles of wire heavy from the rain, and through six sets of repeaters. These repeaters automatically relayed the words simultaneously to a score of newspapers served by The Associated Press in as many different cities in sections of Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Maine.

The Sun's operator, Mr. Joseph O'Connor, copied this matter without error, and the Sun with this and other sporting results and news of the day was on the street three minutes after the finish of the later game at New Haven.

Mr. Keating was formerly A. P. operator for The Sun and has many friends in this city.

JUDGE HADLEY

HAS A PENCIL MADE AT THOREAU WORKS FIFTY YEARS AGO.

Judge Samuel P. Hadley, of the police court, has a very rare souvenir which was recently presented to him and which he prizes very highly. It is a pencil made at the works of John Thoreau at Concord, Mass., during the early part of the 19th century, and which is about 75 years old.

Judge Hadley feels that Henry Thoreau, son of the great pencil maker, who was one of the noted American authors, may have made the pencil which he now possesses, for Henry when young, worked for his father.

Mr. Sanborn, in his life of Thoreau, in speaking of John Thoreau, the father of Henry, says: "Pencil making, the art by which he earned his modest livelihood during Henry's youth, was introduced into Concord about 1812 by William Munroe, whose son has richly endowed the free library from which Henry drew books, and to which he gave some of his own. In his handiwork, which was at times quite profitable, the younger Thoreau assisted his father from time to time, and Henry acquired in it, even to the extent, says Mr. Emerson, 'of making as good a pencil as the best English ones.'"

CATHOLIC NEWS

Rev. T. Franklin Wood, O. M. I., preached the sermon at the high mass at the Sacred Heart church yesterday. Mass was celebrated by Rev. Bernard Fletcher, O. M. I.

In the afternoon several committees held meetings and made arrangements for the annual parish reunion. The affair will be held during Thanksgiving week, and indications are that it will be a great success.

On one of the evenings of the affair, the minstrel show, which was so successfully presented by the Holy Name society, will be repeated by request. The rehearsals are being held under the direction of Henry Curry, and a great performance is assured.

8 YEAR OLD GIRL STABBED LITTLE BOY

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—With a cry of "Ha, now I've got you!" Ruby Fleishman, an eight-year-old girl, stabbed David Goldschneider, 11 years old, after a quarrel resulting from a game of marbles and the throwing of rocks at each other. The knife, of pocket variety, penetrated the back of the boy and he was removed to the Pennsylvania hospital in an ambulance after the cries of his playmates had attracted the attention of the older folk of Christian street.

His condition is considered critical and the wound may prove fatal.

Immediately after the stabbing, Ruby ran into the yard in the rear of 277 Christian street and hid in a barn until Officer Cohen of the West End station appeared and led her to the station house.

Lowell people who have relatives or friends at the Bloomingdale hospital at Worcester and desire to visit them may do so, as the management has announced that the institution will be open to visitors between 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. on Thanksgiving Day.
